MacArthur Gets Stacks of Invitations

Cities All Over America Seeking Visit by General

NEW YORK, April 21—(AP)—The tumult of history's greatest ovation at an end, Gen. Douglas MacArthur rested today, leafing through a stack of invitations from all over America.

There are other cities for the five-star general to conquer if he wishes — Chicago, Philadelphia, Baltimore, to name the larger ones.

But none can pay him greater tribute than he got here yesterday when 7,500,000 persons sent thunderous cheers echoing to the masonry peaks of this skyscraper wonderland.

MacArthur's immediate plans were not made public. He, his wife and 13-year-old son were secluded on the 37th floor of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

However, he tentatively plans to visit Chicago next week.

If he goes there, he has been asked to stop at suburban Maywood, Ill., where a memorial immortalizes 100 tankmen who died in the World War II defense of Bataan.

MacArthur also is committed to visiting his wife's home at Murfreesboro, Tenn., but no date for that trip has been announced.

Has Inquiry Date

MacArthur is expected back in Washington late in the month to testify before a congressional inquiry into Far Eastern military and foreign policy.

His sharp split with President Truman over Far Eastern policies cost him his Pacific command and touched off a bitter debate that may last until the 1952 elections.

"We shall never forget it," MacArthur said yesterday of the historic welcome paid him by New York's millions.

The general emerged from the Waldorf-Astoria shortly after 11 a.m. (E S T), buttoned to the neck in his familiar trenchcoat and with his famed gold-braided hat on his head.

From that instant, all New York went wild in a tumultuous carnival of joy that lasted unbroken for four hours.

There never was anything like it before as massed humanity shouted, wept and waved the general along his 15-mile parade route.

On scrubbed, sedate Park Avenue, through the green malls of Central Park, down the teeming expanse of Sixth Avenue, through a packed and roaring Times Square, past the East Side docks where ships raised a deep-throated whistle of acclaim, up the financial columns of lower Broadway and between the rows of smart Fifth Avenue shops—every turn of the motorcade's wheels brought MacArthur fresh homage.

Ticker tape by the tons swirled down on MacArthur and his party, then was caught up by the winds and went twinkling off across the city in the brightest of springtime April suns.

City's Greatest

It was the greatest of all the ticker-tape parades that for generations have been a trademark of New York's hero welcomes. The police estimate of the crowd made it nearly twice as large as the 4,000,000 spectators who turned out for Charles A. Lindbergh in 1927 and again for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1945.

"This is the greatest city in the world," said MacArthur in frank amazement at the spectacle of thousands before City Hall.

Then, letting his mind drift back through the years, he went on:

"The tremendous reception you have given me recalls a somewhat similar homecoming in which I participated as a cadet from West Point long, long ago.

"It was Admiral Dewey's return from the war in the Pacific. The years have passed, indeed, since then but the hospitality of New York seems only to have grown with time."

Admiral George Dewey, hero of the Spanish-American War, was given a hero's welcome in New York in 1899—a noisy greeting that set a pattern down through the years and culminated in the greatest pageant of all for MacArthur.

After the parade through New

Did Top Brass Share Views Of MacArthur?

Administration Dodging Answer, Hickenlooper Charges

WASHINGTON, April 21 — (AP) — Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) accused the administration today of "smoke-screening" the issue of whether the high command ever shared Gen. Douglas MacArthur's military views on the Korean war.

Senator Long (D-La) replied that MacArthur had "lost one gamble" when the Chinese Communists entered the war and President Truman was only preventing the deposed Pacific commander from "taking the final gamble that Russia would not come in if we bomb China."

Hickenlooper is a Senate foreign relations committee member. Long is a member of the armed services group. The two committees will sit together for an investigation late this month of far eastern military and diplomatic policies.

Senators In Tussle

Their differences were characteristic of a congressional split so deep it erupted into a tussle yesterday between three of four senators recording a radio debate on the issues MacArthur's firing has raised.

The three contestants—Senators Humphrey (D-Minn) and Lehman (D-Lib-NY) on one side and Senator Capehart (R-Ind) on the other—couldn't agree on exactly what happened. Everyone's tempers and clothing were rumpled considerably. Senator Taft (R-Ohio) acted as peacemaker.

He agreed with the others, however, that the four couldn't agree on MacArthur's program to fight an expanded war against the Communists in Korea or on whether military men generally shared MacArthur's views.

MacArthur has called for a naval blockade of the China coast, a tightened economic blockade of Red China, the freeing of allied air power to operate over Manchuria and supply support for Chinese Nationalist troops on Formosa to launch an attack on the China mainland.

He added, in a speech to Congress, that the joint chiefs of staff had shared his military views.

When he fired MacArthur from his Far East command, President Truman said his policies in Korea might touch off World War III.

The Defense Department countered MacArthur's speech with a statement in which it said the joint chiefs had recommended his dismissal.

Hickenlooper told a reporter to-

Woman Hurt In Accident

Car Runs Into Side of House

Mrs. Celia Eaches of 389 Milburn avenue was injured at 11:10 this morning when the auto in which she was riding crashed into the side of a Milburn avenue house.

She is being treated for abrasions of the left leg and sprains in the City Hospital.

The car driven by John Steward, 56, of 389 Milburn avenue, was traveling south on Milburn avenue. It veered from the street, traveled across a front lawn and struck the north side of the house owned by Floyd Sauers of 343 Milburn avenue.

A five-foot section of the concrete tile wall was knocked out and into the basement. The car was badly damaged.

Police could give no explanation for the cause of the mishap. Mrs. Eaches was taken to City Hospital in a Gunder ambulance.

Support of Bond Issue Urged

School Buildings In Need of Replacements

This is one of a series of articles explaining urgent need for passage at the May 8 primary of the $2,900,000 bond issue for a new senior high school and for modernization and addition of facilities at other schools. The articles were prepared by the Citizens' Committee formed to promote passage of the bond issue.

* * *

FOR many generations the citizens of Marion regularly have voted bond issues to provide adequate school buildings for our children.

Examples are the bond issues that built George Washington elementary school and Edison Junior High School in 1930-31; North Main Street elementary and Vernon Junior High Schools in 1921; the Harding Senior High School in 1915 Mark, Oakland, Pearl, Glenwood, and a part of Silver elementary buildings from 1911 to 1914; Oak and Olney elementary schools in 1907. In fact, from the construction of the older portion of the recently abandoned Central Junior High School in 1859 to the building of the George Washington and Edison buildings in 1930-31, Marion has constructed new school buildings in every single decade at normal, natural intervals.

The depression in the thirties, followed by the Second World War, resulted in a long gap of nearly 20 years in which no school buildings were constructed in our city. As a result, some buildings of the Marion City School system are in dire need of replacement. A tour of the buildings would convince any fair-minded person of our present needs.

Marion Boards of Education have made excellent use of the school plant by the additions to buildings at various times. For example: (1) Glenwood, built in 1914, had an addition in 1927; (2) North Main, constructed in 1921, was added to in 1929; (3) Oakland, originally built in 1911, was enlarged in 1920; (4) Olney, built in 1907, was completely rebuilt in 1914 following a fire; (5) Pearl Street, first built in 1914, was nearly doubled in size in 1930. While the oldest section of Silver Street School was constructed in 1893, there was an addition in 1911, and another, consisting of two classrooms and a multi-purpose room, in 1949.

The school building program in Marion has been constant and progressive. Buildings have been maintained, rebuilt, and enlarged to serve taxpayers economically. More important, our children have not been forgotten. When new buildings have been needed our citizens have approved bond issues to build them. Once again new buildings are necessary. Our citizens do not want to house their children in unsafe structures, but want them to have the modern facilities available to children in other Ohio communities. We believe the citizens of our city will approve a bond issue to construct school buildings once they understand the need for them. We shall attempt in this series of articles to provide the facts we feel you will want before you cast your ballot on May 8.

Creates New Wage Board

WASHINGTON, April 21—(AP)—President Truman today created a new 18-member wage stabilization board with power to recommend settlement of a wide variety of labor management disputies affecting the defense program.

The members are expected to be named in a few days. George W. Taylor, University of Pennsylvania professor of industry, has already agreed to serve as chairman until the board is organized.

Suppression Of News Hit By Editors

Must Combat Growing Tendency Toward Secrecy, Is Warning

WASHINGTON, April 21——(AP)—The American Society of Newspaper Editors was advised today to fight what one of its committees described as an increasing tendency toward "arrogant suppression of news" by government officials.

The committee on freedom of information, in a report prepared for today's convention session, told some 400 editors:

"We are beginning to suspect that the biggest uncovered story of our time is the insidious seizure of news prerogatives by public officials."

The committee, headed by James S. Pope of the Louisville Courier - Journal, recommended that editors wage the fight not only through news and editorial columns but through the courts when necessary.

"More often, publicity itself is the simplest and most devastating ammunition action against secrecy," Pope said.

The report contained a long sampling of cases of news interference on the part of officials ranging from city clerks to the heads of federal agencies.

Cites "Strong-Arm" Episode

It cited what it called two recent "strong-arm" episodes involving Air Force police—the alleged roughing of cameramen when Gen. MacArthur's plane reached Honolulu, and during coverage of a military plane crash recently in Vancouver Lake.

"When we protested to the secretary of the Air Force he promptly expressed his regret and his full sympathy with our concept of civil and news rights," the report said. "The Air Force will investigate each incident and undertake to prevent their repetition."

The committee found serious fault with the "advisory censorship" for businessmen recently set up by the Commerce Department. This policy encourages industry to withhold data which concerned "advanced industrial developments, production knowhow and technology, strategic equipment, special installations." In recommending this for the duration of the present mobilization program, Secretary of Commerce Sawyer said such information might be of value to potential enemies.

Pope said one business group was advised by the Commerce Department's experts to omit from its reporting of government contracts, "any information in connection with the national defense effort." The editor added:

News Suppression Network

"Here is the beginning of a vast, hardly discerned network of potential news suppression at the source by government agencies who seem to be only vaguely instructed on intricate factors that really involve military security."

"How much of this is going on we do not know. We've only begun to look. We suggest that all of you take a hard look, through your

Soybeans Stolen From Barn On Farm Near Meeker

Sheriff LeRoy Retterer today reported the theft of 10 to 15 bushels of soybeans from a barn on the Harry Swavel and Sons farm near Meeker.

The theft, discovered yesterday, is believed to have occurred sometime Thursday night. Mr. Swavel reported the theft to the sheriff yesterday morning. Deputy Sheriff Richard Ruth is conducting an investigation.

The theft was the third reported in the county yesterday. The Laubis Elevator Co. at LaRue was burglarized of a small radio and a .22 caliber rifle while $350 in cash and merchandise was taken from the Farm and Home Lumber Co. at Caledonia. A fourth breakin was attempted Thursday night at the New York Central Freight House at LaRue but burglars were frightened from the scene.

Bridge Panels Fall on Worker

Crushed To Death In Depot Accident

Hudson De Witt Stevenson, 31, of 296 Senate street was crushed to death in an accident at the Marion Engineering Depot yesterday. This was the first fatality in the depot's nine-year history, officers in charge there reported.

The accident happened at 10:17 a.m. yesterday. Stevenson, a member of a four-man laboring crew, was working as hook-up man for a large crane moving Bailey bridge panels from storage space to a packing assembly line where they are processed for shipment. Stevenson was standing within 12-panel pack, next to an end panel. When the crane lifted the pack the steel bands holding it together broke. The end panel fell on its side. Stevenson, seeing his danger, tried to escape but before he could the other 11 panels tipped over like a string of giant dominos and pinned him to the fallen panel chest high, killing him instantly.

Weigh 700 Pounds

These bridge panels, which are used for assembling temporary road and railroad bridges in combat zones, are made of steel framework. They are 10 feet in length, stand five feet high on edge, are about six inches thick and weigh 700 pounds each.

Attempts to remove his body from the five-ton tangle of steel in which it lay would have resulted in his body being dragged for some distance. Depot officials ordered a second crane to the scene which lifted the bridge panels vertically off the body, which was removed to Boyd's Funeral Home by an Engineer Depot ambulance. He had been employed at the Engineer Depot since December, 1950.

Col. Rene Quenneville, commanding officer of the Marion Engineer Depot, today ordered an investigation of Stevenson's death.

Steps will be taken to see there is no recurrence of such a tragic accident, Col. Quenneville said.

Born In Pittsburgh

Hudson De Witt Stevenson was born Feb. 2, 1920 in Pittsburgh, Pa.; the son of Carroll Hudson, a native of Larimer, Pa., and Verna Anderson Stevenson, a native of Scranton, Ontario. His parents reside at the rear of 126 Fies avenue.

He had lived in Marion seven years. He served three years in the U. S. Army during World War II, two of which were on foreign service in Iran. He was a member of the Park Street A.M.E. Church.

He was married to the former Miss Beatrice Reece Oct. 25, 1945 in Marion on his return from the Army. She and their three children, Carol Jane, Lewis and Martin Levon survive at their Senate street home.

A sister, Mrs. Saranne West of the rear of 126 Fies avenue also survives.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Monday at the Mt. Zion Baptist Church on Senate street with Rev. J. C. Collins officiating. Interment will be in Marion Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Boyd Funeral Home after 7 p.m. today until 10 a.m. Monday and at Mt. Zion Baptist Church from 12 noon Monday until the time of the funeral.

Newark Man Says He Killed Friend's Wife

NEWARK, O., April 21—(AP)—A 23-year-old Newark mother was choked and beaten to death in the front room of her home today. Her two small children slept undisturbed upstairs.

Police found the body of Mrs. Richard Loewendick lying in her home. Only then did the Loewendick children awaken.

Robert Jamison Jr., 25, a close friend of Mr. and Mrs. Loewendick is held in Newark city jail for questioning.

Patrolman Robert Fournier and Roy Waldren said Jamison walked into Newark police headquarters at 4 a.m. with his wife, Jean.

"I got a good one for you," he said without preamble. "I just killed a woman."

Fournier and Waldren said the man had been drinking.

Richard Loewendick, husband of the slain woman, was working at the Owens Corning Glass Co. plant.

"I just can't believe it," Loewendick said again and again after he was told of Jamison's statement to police.

Fournier and Waldren said Jamison admitted choking Mrs. Loewendick but said he had no clear memory of exactly what happened. He visited the Loewendick home in today's early hours after drinking in two Newark roadside taverns.

The husky, black-haired Newark man said he fled to his own home after the strangling. His

Allied Troops Beat Off Red Counterattacks

Rifle Butts, Fists Used on Reds In Battle for Chorwon

TOKYO, April 21 —(AP)—Allied troops beat off Red counterattacks with fists and rifle butts last night and fought today for the last ridges barring capture of Chorwon.

The Reds briefly penetrated United Nations lines in west central Korea Friday night. They struck in defense of Chorwon, transport hub 18 miles north of the 38th Parallel border of Red Korea.

The Red attack, with hand grenades and automatic weapons, carried through Allied lines at one point. It separated two Allied elements and forced one U. N. company back to reform.

Early Saturday the company fought back up the 1,500-foot height, with the aid of artillery fire.

Blast Troops

Heavy artillery batteries blasted Red troop concentration areas before dawn Saturday north of Allied-won Hwachon reservoir in central Korea. Flares lighted the target area.

AP correspondent Jim Becker said the heaviest bombardment hit four miles north of the reservoir and about 200 yards east of the Suritchon river.

Another field dispatch reported an unopposed U. N. advance over ridge tops near the captured town of Hwachon.

Korean military sources said a captured Chinese Red reported the Communists have been ordered to pull back to the 39th Parallel to await reinforcements. The report was without confirmation.

The 39th Parallel is 70 miles inside Red Korea.

Gradual Withdrawal

A gradual Red withdrawal has been in progress all along the front. But Allied sources estimate the 600,000 Communist troops are north of the Chorwon-Kumhwa line. A Red counter-offensive has been considered probable.

The Reds made several counterattacks Friday south and southeast of Chorwon. Five hundred made one of these assaults. The attack lost 75 killed and 150 to 175 wounded.

Warren Diehl of 829 Congress street today announced his write-in candidacy for city councilman from the third ward on the Republican ticket. He will be unopposed for the Republican nomination.

O. B. Manbeck of 888 Sheridan road had originally announced his candidacy for the nomination but withdrew from the race when the deadline for filing nominating petitions arrived.

To win the nomination, Mr. Diehl must poll at least 15 percent of the Republican votes cast in the third ward. A native of Marion, Mr. Diehl is an employe of the Osgood Co.

Herman Rinehart of 747 Davids street, incumbent councilman, is unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

May Hit 39 In Flaming Gulf Disaster

Ships Explode After Crashing in Fog; Many Burned Alive

NEW ORLEANS, April 21—(AP) — Seventeen seamen were known dead and 22 others were missing and presumed dead today in the collision of two tankers that set both ablaze in the Gulf of Mexico 200 miles south of Morgan City, La.

Marine records indicate it is the greatest disaster off the U. S. coast since 84 lives were lost in the collision of an American tanker and freighter off the Atlantic coast on June 6, 1943.

In yesterday's pre-dawn collision during heavy fog, the 10,000-ton Esso Greensboro and the 26,500-ton super tanker Esso Suez crashed, exploded and burst into flames.

Only one man among the 44 man crew of the Esso Suez was killed in the collision but another, unidentified, died of burns. Three other men on the Suez were burned.

All the other dead were aboard the flaming Greensboro, carrying 42 men. The bodies of fifteen men from the Greensboro were recovered and five survivors from the Greensboro were picked up.

Four of these—two from the Greensboro and two from the Suez—were flown to Corpus Christi, Tex., for medical attention.

Seaman Tells Story

"I saw one light and then the other," related seaman John A. Horton of Cambridge, Mass., one of four injured men on the Suez flown to Corpus Christi.

"It seemed like they were right on top of us," Horton said. "Then there was a hell of an explosion.

"I couldn't see anything. The minute we hit, there was nothing but smoke and flame. I don't think those guys (on the Greensboro) had a chance. I saw some of the men from the engine room try to escape through the vents.

"The Suez caught fire just as soon as the hot oil from the Greensboro hit us. I don't know how it happened. It was a very heavy fog."

Storekeeper LeRoy E. Fay, of Baltimore, Md., a survivor from the Greensboro, said he was lying on his bunk when the ship "exploded."

He was severely burned when flames roared through the port hole.

"The passageways filled with men trying to get out," Fay said. "You should have heard all those guys screaming and hollering for help. Everybody tried to run topside. Quick as they did, they were burned alive. . . .

"I opened a hatch and flames flew back in my face. There was a kid there got burned standing up. He was going to marry a Baltimore girl. Another man opened a door and was burned alive where he stood."

Planes Hunt Bodies

This morning two Coast Guard planes, two Navy planes, two Coast Guard cutters and the Esso Burlington searched the disaster area for any bodies that might still be recovered, or possible survivors not already picked up.

Crewmen from the 10,000 ton tanker Virginia, one of a dozen ships that went to the scene boarded the Greensboro late last night, the Coast Guard said, and put out the flames and took the disabled ship in tow.

The Virginia, owned by the National Bulk Carrier Co., of New York claimed the tanker for salvage. She was towing the ship to Galveston.

The Virginia reported this morning 10 bodies were found aboard the Greensboro.

The Coast Guard received the first SOS from the Suez at 5:29 a. m. (E.S.T.) Friday. The message read: "struck tanker and apparently all hands are lost."

The Esso Burlington, another of the ships that went to the scene, picked up three charred bodies. The Burlington reported last night that additional bodies were seen in the water, but darkness prevented further recoveries. Planes joined in a search of the area early today.

Among the bodies recovered

Standard on Profits

Johnston Ready to Offer New Price Control Plan

WASHINGTON, April 21—(AP)—Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston may announce today a new attack on prices through establishment of a "fair and equitable" standard for manufacturers profits.

The plan is reportedly the first leg of a three-part program, also involving labor and agriculture, by which Johnston hopes to "harden" anti-flation dykes.

Government officials first mentioned the plan three weeks ago. On April 13, Price Director Michael V. DiSalle told newsmen some prices would be rolled back at the manufacturers' level by an order to be issued "next week." This would bring about some price drops at the retail level, DiSalle said.

The plan reportedly would.

1 Allow manufacturers to strike an average of their dollar profits in their three best years during the four years, 1946-1949.

2 Forbid price increases which would boost manufacturers' profits more than 85 percent of that average.

3. Allow prices which have broken through the 85 percent formula to stand, but

4. Require manufacturers to absorb increased costs without raising prices until their profits run not more than 85 percent of the average of the three best years from 1946 through 1949.

DiSalle said the order would affect between 100,000 and 150,000 manufacturers.

Johnston wants to follow up, according to previous reports from government officials, with two more big orders completing a stabilization triangle:

1 Labor—set June 30, 1951 as the final date on which wage increases would be allowed under cost-of-living or other "escalator" (automatic increase) clauses in union contracts.

2. Agriculture — "freeze" farm parity at the levels of last Jan. 15, thereby making it possible to build a farm ceiling over food prices.

Formula

Parity is a formula to give the farmer a fair return on his products in relation to the prices of things he buys. Parity prices swing up or down as the level of non-farm prices teeters. Therefore, food prices can continue to rise so long as other prices rise. Labor objects to limitations on wage increases—the present formula is 10 percent above wages of Jan. 15, 1950—while food prices are allowed to crawl up.

President Truman may send a defense production act proposal to Congress next week, to take the place of the present act, expiring June 30. The farm bloc will probably fight without quarter against any attempt to tamper with parity.

Evangelist To Speak Sunday At Maranatha Church

Guest preacher at the Maranatha Bible Church tomorrow morning will be Dr. Charles Halff, Tulsa, Okla., evangelist who is conducting revival services nightly at the Coliseum in Marion. Also present will be his musical evangelists, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Jantz and daughter, Carolyn, of Independence, Kan.

Dr. Halff will preach on "The Identification Marks of a Christian." Mrs. Jantz will play the piano and accordion, and she and Mr. Jantz will present duet numbers, and their daughter will sing.

Maranatha Church will participate in the meetings at the Coliseum next week, with the schedule of the church adjusted to make it possible for the members to attend the special services there, Rev. Earl L. Holliday, pastor, stated. There will be no preaching service at Maranatha Church tomorrow night in keeping with this plan. The church bus will leave for the Coliseum at 7:30 following the church's youth meeting at 6:30. For the youth service, there will be an illustrated message on "Enlisting in God's Army."

At the afternoon service in the Coliseum tomorrow, Dr. Halff will present "The Story of My Conversion, or Why I Gave Up Half a Million Dollars." Starting to preach while yet in his teens, he has been holding meetings for more than six years throughout this country, and spends two months every year in Mexico doing mission work.

His message tomorrow night will be on "How To Know for Sure That You Are Saved." Next week, his sermons will include "Special Demonstration of the Jewish Passover," "The Unpardonable Sin and Suicide," and "World War III and Bible Prophecy." The message tonight will be on "Go Jump in the River."

wife, Jean, induced him to give himself up to police, Fournier and Waldren related.

The two patrolmen gave this version of Jamison's oral statement:

He went to a roadside cafe on Route 79 at midnight after leaving work at the Kaiser Aluminum Co. plant. He drove a friend named "Jim" to his home some time later, then went to another tavern on Route 16 west of Newark. He drank there until closing time at 2:30 a.m.

Then, he went to the Loewendick home. The Loewendicks and Jamisons were "good friends," Jamison said.

Police said Mrs. Loewendick's clothes were torn and disarranged.

Washington bureaus and your press services."

More than $2,000,000,000 in federal relief outlays last year were "protected from any outside investigation of fraud," the report said, by the law which keeps welfare rolls a secret. Indiana, it added, has repealed its state secrecy law but has risked the loss of federal relief monies by doing so.

Even without a legal mandate for secrecy the Bureau of Unemployment Security has declared by regulation that jobless relief rolls be kept from the public, the committee said. It assessed this as meaning that another $1,300,000,000 is disbursed subject only to checkup by the agency itself.

Have Right To Know

"We editors have been assuming that no one would dispute this premise; that when the people rule, they have a right to know all their government does," the report said.

"This committee finds appalling evidence that the guiding credo in Washington is becoming just the opposite: that it is dangerous and unwise to let information about government leak out in any unprocessed form."

The committee suggested that the obstacles placed in the way of information on RFC lending and some other federal operations had a "definite connection" with the subsequent "scandals" aired in congressional hearings.

It called attention to the refusal of alcohol tax unit officials to give out the names of bars which had been caught diluting whiskey. A treasury lawyer held that the information was not a public record because the cases had been compromised by fines. The committee's comment was:

"Federal authorities are creating a special privileged class of offenders; those who break a federal law. They can buy immunity from publicity by paying a fine.

"It is a sort of official blackmail in which we (editors) collaborate by complacency and watch our inheritance being sold for peanuts," the report said.

Concerning the secrecy rules of the Atomic Energy Commission, the committee said that "secrecy is intrinsically a dangerous and corrupting thing." It added:

"It is highly probable that it already has hampered research and development, and that it has cost the nations millions in wasted expenditures.

"While the press must recognize the necessity for some military secrecy, it also must constantly review and question the validity of AEC's decisions on what is to be withheld."

day that whether the chiefs concurred in ousting the five-star general was "not the point." He added:

"The big issue is: did they approve of MacArthur's program, as he said they did."

MacArthur told Congress Thursday that the chiefs of staff had shared his major military views.

Hickenlooper and Senator Knowland (R-Calif) predicted that the general would back up that statement with documents. And in Tokyo, a key military official said MacArthur certainly could do so.

Woman Battles 4 Policemen

Booked on 3 Charges After Tussle

Mrs Anna Rosebrough Close, 49, of 788 Cheney avenue was treated at Marion City Hospital last night for injuries which police said she received during a scuffle while she was being arrested for intoxication.

Police gave this account of the scuffle.

Mrs. Close was reported intoxicated in a West Center street drinking spot last night at about 9 p.m. A police officer investigated and told her to go home. A short while later she was observed drinking again and the officer attempted to arrest her. She put up a fight and three other officers had to be called to subdue her.

During the tussle she cut her hand. Blood was smeared over the officers' uniforms.

She was taken to City Hospital for treatment of the cut and then lodged in City Prison. Several stitches were taken to close the wound, police reporte.

Name of the bar in which she had been drinking was not reported on the police record.

She had been arrested 13 times previously on charges of intoxication and disorderly conduct police reported.

She pleaded guilty to charges in Municipal Court today and was fined $25 and costs by Judge W. Dexter Hazen. The fine and costs were suspended if she would clean the officers' uniforms. She was released.

E. J Curren, 22, of near Ashley was arrested at 10:22 p.m. yesterday on South Main street and charged with reckless operation. He pleaded guilty in Municipal Court today and was fined $15 and costs.

Sam Ashley, 21, of Lincoln Park, Mich., was arrested on Delaware avenue at 3:42 a.m. today and charged with speeding. He forfeited $25 bond when he failed to appear in Municipal Court today.

STILL DEADLOCKED

PARIS, April 21 —(AP)— The four-power deputies ended their seventh week of talks today, still deadlocked in their efforts to draw up an agenda for a foreign ministers' conference. Western spokesmen said there was no new development at today's meeting, their 35th since March 5.

Kiwanis Told History Of Baseball Club

A program dealing with baseball and the opening of the season in Marion next week was presented at the Marion Kiwanis Club weekly luncheon meeting Thursday at Hotel Harding.

Wilson Tway, a member of the Marion Baseball Club's board of directors, was speaker, giving a history of the club and of the present Marion Red Sox team. He urged support of the club and attendance at the games when the season opens soon.

Program chairman was Albert L. Hamburg, also a member of the baseball club board of directors.

Following the talk by Mr. Tway, members watched and heard by television General MacArthur's talk in Washington.

Guests of the club were Milton A. Armstrong, a visiting Kiwanian, of Columbus, R. M. Riddle of Columbus, and Dwight Altman and Harry Haberman of Marion.

Hotel Chambermaid Admits Jewel Thefts

NEW YORK, April 21—(AP)—A $31-a-week chambermaid, detectives say, has admitted stealing $350,000 to $400,000 worth of jewels from guests in 35 of New York's swankiest hotels

The woman, Mrs. Julia Arbotofsky, 44, of Brooklyn, was charged yesterday with grand larceny and held in $2,500 bail. Police said she rifled guest rooms over a 30-month period.

Her alleged thefts, police said, occurred in such luxury hostelries as the Waldorf-Astoria, Essex House, Biltmore, Commodore, St. Regis, Vanderbilt, Pierre and Sherry-Netherland.

Detectives said $30,000 worth of gems and 233 pawn tickets were found in her apartment.

Esso Suez Fatality

The only fatality reported aboard the Esso Suez was first mate Walter Brehm of Lyndhurst, N J. The ship's crew put out the fire, and she proceeded under her own power. Esso officials said they had ordered her to Mobile because New Orleans drydock facilities could not take the big tanker. She is due in Mobile at 6 or 7 p.m. (C.S.T.) tonight.

Enroute to Mobile, Esso officials said, she is to halt at Southwest Pass at the mouth of the Mississippi River, 100 miles south of New Orleans today. There, two bodies aboard are to be transferred to a launch to be brought ashore. Names of the two dead crewmen were not given

The Coast Guard listed the four Greensboro survivors as: First assistant engineer Arthur Rolf of St. Cloud, Fla., deck maintenance man John A. Pirro of Leominster, Mass., fireman and watertender John W. Rohm of Mobile, Ala., and Fay.

"GENERAL'S DELIGHT." "MacArthur" hat, created by Mr. John in New York, makes its appearance as welcome home salute to the general. "The General's Delight," it's called.

MacArthur

York's streets, the general was guest at an official luncheon at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Visibly Tired

Visibly tired after the day-long activities, he said New York's welcome has done what an enemy in 10 years of war failed to —made him surrender.

He said Mrs. MarArthur told him not to make "another speech."

"Although many of you doubt it, I do most meticulously obey my commander-in-chief," he said, looking at Mrs. MacArthur. He added:

"You have etched on our hearts a memory we shall never forget. . . you have forced us to capitulate. At long last we do surrender."

Then the general left the banquet hall as a military band played "Old Soldiers Never Die" the military ballad MacArthur quoted before Congress Thursday.

The luncheon, which ended almost at dusk, marked the culmination of the general's official functions. Today he relaxed in his hotel suite while his wife and son were to go to the Polo Grounds to see the Brooklyn Dodgers play the New York Giants this afternoon.

His son, Arthur, didn't attend the official luncheon. He chose to watch it on television from the family's suite.

At the luncheon, the table on the dais bore floral bouquets of red poppies, white and red gladioli, white dogwood and blue iris.

Of the massive welcome accorded the general yesterday, Mayor Vincent Impellitteri predicted that "New York will never see a greater reception"

Before sailing on a Cuban vacation last night, the mayor said the demonstration "was the biggest I have even seen."

Family Reaction

"Wonderful" was all that MacArthur could say about his Broadway reception. The general said the gigantic welcome left him at a loss for words.

For Mrs. MacArthur it was a "perfect day."

Young Arthur, awed by the big reception, had no comment. Lt. Col. Anthony Story, pilot and aide to the general, says young Arthur's dad has decreed no interviews for the boy.

"This has been quite a thing for a kid 13 years old," said Story.

Meanwhile, some 500 sanitation department employes worked through the night cleaning up the last of a record-breaking 2,852 tons of confetti and ticker tape. Up to 3,200 workers were busy sweeping the streets yesterday.

The tremendous crush of spectators resulted in 18 casualties, treated by first aidsmen for abrasions, sprains, fainting spells or hysteria.

An enthusiastic spectator, who tossed a chair into the air and injured three women, was arrested. Another man was seriously injured when a paper weight, falling from a skyscraper window, landed on his head.

Nab Payroll

Gunmen made off with a $3,398 payroll from the Dexter Clothing Inc., while office employes leaned out of the windows to cheer the general through Manhattan's garment district.

At Times Square, police routed several persons distributing pamphlets asking President Truman to "bring our boys home" from Korea.

The Waldorf's ten-room presidential suite will be the MacArthurs home for the next three weeks or so.

More than 1,200 telephone messages for the general swamped the hotel switchboard. MacArthur also had a pile of congratulatory telegrams Western Union said might stack 10,000 high.

Ask Slice In Budget

WASHINGTON, April 21 —(AP)—A seven percent cut in the interior department's budget for the fiscal year 1952 was recommended Friday by the House Appropriations committee.

It was the largest percentage cut recommended in the three departmental bills for fiscal 1952 sent to the House floor so far this year.

The committee approved $520,031,500 of the $559,286,000 requested by President Truman, the recommended allotment being $58,619,325 less than funds provided the department for the present year.

The largest single cut was in funds of the department's reclamation bureau, which wanted $252,075,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1, and was given $233,575,000.

All the recommendations are subject to House action when the bill financing the department comes up for debate next week.

Breaks Go Wrong Way as Truman Has Rough Day

WASHINGTON, April 21—(AP)—A drawbridge added itself last night to the Republicans, Southern Democrats, General MacArthur and others disturbing the even tenor of Mr. Truman's presidential life.

Mr. Truman set out at 8:30 a.m (EST) for a quiet weekend cruise on his yacht Williamsburg.

After the President boarded the Williamsburg the South Capitol Street drawbridge started to open for the presidential yacht. Partly up, it stuck.

The Williamsburg and the President didn't get into the Potomac until two hours later, when workmen got the recalcitrant bridge to work.

The President was booed by part of the crowd when he went out to the ball park earlier in the day to toss in the first ball of the game between Washington and the New York Yankees.

There was also scattered clapping, but the Washington "Star" called it the "coldest reception ever given a chief executive at an opening baseball game."

It was Mr. Truman's first public appearance in the wake of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's dramatic capture of the city Thursday.

The chief executive shrugged off the boos with a grin and ate a hot dog.

The walkout shortly before 1 a.m. (E.S.T.) climaxed a dispute over wages.

The finals of the meet were set for 2 p.m. today with some 4,000 fans expected to attend.

Gavilan Gains Decision Over Cagey Minelli

NEW YORK, April 21—(AP)—Cuban Kid Gavilan is ready to begin training for his May 18 welter title bout with Johnny Bratton after a warmup win over cagey Aldo Minelli.

Maybe "warmup" isn't the word for Gavilan's 10-rounder with the 31-year-old Italian last night at St. Nicholas Arena. The crowd of 2,582 that paid $5,829 hooted the unanimous decision for the 3½ to 1 favorite.

Minelli bothered the sleek "keed" with his unorthodox style. Bouncing at long range and then swarming inside to clutch after looping a long counter right was the Minelli system. Gavilan didn't exactly sparkle.

But the kids's bolo punching to the body reddened Aldo's side. And a hook to the head wobbled him in the ninth. There were no knockdowns.

Judge Charley Shortell had it 8-2, Judge Joe Agnello 7-3 and Referee George Walsh 6-3-1. The AP card was 7-3.

Bucks Rally To Drop Gophers

CHICAGO, April 21—(AP)—Two pre-season Big Ten pennant favorites, Michigan and Iowa, dropped opening conference baseball games yesterday.

Illinois beat the Wolverines, 3-2; Northwestern raked Iowa, 9-3. Ohio State took Minnesota 10-9 in another conference game.

Ohio State, behind 6-0 after two innings, exploded for two big innings—the fourth and fifth—for their victory over the Gophers. The Buckeyes got four runs in the fourth and five in the fifth. Each team got 10 hits. They play again today at Columbus.

Indiana, by virtue of its 6-3 win over Wisconsin last Saturday, shares the early Big Ten lead with Illinois, Northwestern and Ohio State, each with one victory. Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin all have lost one.

Club Officials To Meet Plane In Columbus

By JOHN SHORT

Arrangements have been completed for the arrival of the 1951 Marion Red Sox tomorrow morning.

The team will arrive at Port Columbus early and will be brought to Marion in private auto by club officials. First drill for the Marsox at Lincoln Park will be held Monday at 11 a.m. The squad will put in only two official drills at the local field before kicking the lid from the O-I season Tuesday night against Springfield's Giants.

Advance Guard

An advance guard for the team already has arrived in the city. Bob Penny, hurler from last year's pennant winning crew, arrived yesterday.

Manager Elmer Yoter will bring a contingent of at least 15 players tomorrow. These will include James Evanik, right-handed hitting second sacker; Dick Browowski, third baseman; John Andrews, George Radick and Phil Renzi, outfielders; Marvin Stendel and Pete Chaukalas, first basemen; Carmine Vinci, shortstop; Ed Sadowski, catcher; and Dick Tarys, Bob Marciniec, Alex Salerno, Baker Hyde and Bob O'Connor, pitchers. O'Connor and Tarys are southpaws while the remaining moundsmen throw from the right side. Andrews and Radick are the only left handed batters on the present roster.

Don Borger, hard hitting catcher, who made a brief visit to the Marsox last year, is expected to be in the Marion fold by opening day.

Chaukalas also appeared here last year. A native of Cleveland, he is one of the few bonus players in the O-I Loop. Although listed as a first baseman, he probably will be used mostly in the outfield. Only other returnee from last year's champions is Alex "Bobo" Salerno, a pitcher.

Skipper Yoter has said he will wind up the training grind with a light workout Tuesday afternoon. The Marsox will be out to repeat last year's performance when they take the field Tuesday night.

Red Sox Fail To Win Even on Home Grounds

Lack Punch In 6-3 Loss To Athletics

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Who stole the Fenway Park left field wall or what's the matter with the Boston Red Sox?

That's the puzzler for the good citizens of Boston.

The Sox, perennial pre-season favorites to waltz to the American League pennant, are in a deep freeze.

Steve O'Neill's men entered the season with 11 straight exhibition victories and their long suffering followers licked chops, anticipating a terrific start. But alas, the Sox still are wallowing in the dust, looking for victory No. 1.

Drop Two

They began by dropping two games to the world champion Yankees in New York, scoring only once in the process.

Yesterday they opened their home season and it appeared that their spiked guns would smoke and belch as of old. Victory seemed a lead pipe cinch.

The factors that pointed to a sure-fire Red Sox victory were:

1. The Sox were back on their home lot with that chummy left field wall, a haven for their awesome right handed hitters.

2. They were to meet the Philadelphia Athletics. The A's, dead last in 1950, had lost 22 straight games at Fenway Park, not winning in Boston since Sept. 12, 1948.

3. Alex Kellner, a 20-game loser in 1950 and a lefthander to boot, was to pitch for the A's. A lefthander goes the route and beats the Sox in Boston only once in a blue moon. Hal Newhouser of Detroit and Gene Bearden of Washington were the only ones to perform that feat last year.

4. Mel Parnell was to pitch for Boston. Marvelous Mel had racked up the A's 10 straight times.

Limits Hits

But Kellner stunned a crowd of 11,461 fans by turning back the star-studded Sox, 6-3, permitting only four hits along the way.

Kermit Wahl broke up the game in the eighth inning. Wahl belted a two-out two-run double and scored the clincher when the usually reliable Dom Dimaggio dropped Joe Tipton's liner.

The Yanks ran into a snag in Washington, dropping a day-night doubleheader to the Washington Senators, 5-3, and 8-4.

Sandalio Consuegra yielded four hits in outlasting five Yankee pitchers who granted only two hits. Thirteen ases on balls ruined the Yanks. A crowd of 27,331 fans including President Truman turned out as Washington belatedly opened its season.

Lefty Al Sima scattered 10 hits in the night game which attracted 15,553 customers. Mickey Vernon batted in four runs on a triple, double and two singles to spoil the debut of Rookie Tom Morgan, the Yanks spring training flash.

The double triumph put the Nats in first by a half game over the Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox who scored their third straight triumphs in the afternoon.

Hopeless Browns

Bob Feller came up with a neat five-hitter as he pitched the Indians to a 4-1 victory over the hapless St. Louis Browns before 48,316 fans in Cleveland's home opener.

Randy Gumpert pitched Chicago to a 5-0 three-hit victory over the Detroit Tigers before 8,731 at Chicago. Gumpert helped his cause by driving in two runs.

The Brooklyn Dodgers spoiled the day for the Giants and 30,870 fans by downing the New Yorkers, 7-3, at the Polo Grounds. The Boston Braves nipped the Phils, 2-1, before 17,423 fans in Philadelphia. Don Newcombe tamed the Giants on five hits. Max Surkont surrendered only two hits and drove home the winning run with a fly ball as the Braves shaded the Phils.

Gerry Staley scattered nine hits as the Cards opened their home season with a 5-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs in St. Louis under the lights.

Galion Nine Blasts Tiro

Special to The Star

GALION, April 21—Galion High Tigers baseball team marched on to the fifth consecutive victory this season by defeating Tiro, Friday afternoon, 10-0. The game was played at Tiro.

Randall Vance pitched for the Tigers, striking out seven Tiro players, issuing no walks, and not permitting a man past second. Butt pitched for Tiro and struck out six. He issued eight walks and hit one batter. McGraw came in the last inning for Butt and issued three walks and one hit.

Coach Dick Kerin plays his Tigers against Marion on the Heise Park diamond, here, next Tuesday afternoon. The Tigers play a night game at 8 o'clock in Cardington on Wednesday.

Reds Making Dopesters Look Good

CINCINNATI, April 21—(AP)—The Cincinnati ball club is making the pre-season experts look awfully good. They said the Reds weren't going anywhere this season, and so far they've been 100 percent right.

In their opener, the Redlegs chortled happily and sent their ace pitcher, Ewell Blackwell, out to show up Pittsburgh. Maybe it was the freezing weather, but Blackie stayed around only long enough to get clipped for four quick runs—and the game wound up 4-3.

Cincinnati then moved to Chicago for two games. The Reds kicked around the ball as if they were playing soccer in the first one, and their five errors cost them game No. 2.

Came their third chance. Willie Ramsdell's pitching was at least adequate and the Rhinelanders' fielding was spotless. This time they just couldn't hit when hits were needed. So the game ended 3-0, Chicago.

All of which has been putting enough wrinkles in Manager Luke Sewell's brow to make it resemble a washboard.

If his team can't beat lower-case clubs such as the Pirates and Cubs what will happen when the big boys move in? Sewell is pondering.

LOYAL TO INDIANS

CLEVELAND, April 21—(AP)—The man who has seen every Cleveland baseball opener since 1899 was there again yesterday, still keenly following the plays. Fred Squires, a retired meat market owner from Orrville, is 82 now. He saw his first opener when he lived in Ashtabula and worked in a livery stable.

Lemon Ready Again

Tribe Hurlers Rationing Hits as Feller Shines

CLEVELAND, April 21 —(AP)— It's up to Pitcher Bob Lemon today to continue the hit-rationing that's lifted the Cleveland Indians into virtual three-way tie for the American League lead.

A fast, effective Bob Feller doled out five hits to the St. Louis Browns in yesterday's opener. He beat them 4-1 before a crowd of 48,316, biggest in the majors so far this young season.

Lemon, who opposes Ned Garver today, started the rationing when he fung a two-hitter to whip Detroit 2-1 in the first game of the year in the Motor City Tuesday.

Near Shutout

Feller almost had a shutout yesterday, but pinchhitter Hank Arft spoiled it when he led off the ninth by pounding the ball over the right field fence. It was the fifth victory for Feller in eight openers, he's hurled, and he won three of them by shutouts—one a no-hitter.

"I made sure I didn't walk anyone that last inning—too sure." Feller said a little ruefully after the game. "Arft hit a nice big inside fast ball."

The Indians also had to be content with five hits. But they got two of them, along with five walks and a bad throw by third baseman Johnny Berardino in the second inning. All four Cleveland runs came across in that frame to provide Feller a comfortable lead.

Dick Starr, who fanned two Cleveland batters at the end of the first inning, couldn't seem to get anyone out in the second. He walked Al Rosen, then Larry Doby slapped a double down the right-field foul line—Cleveland's only extra base hit of the game. Bob Kennedy's single to right brought Rosen in with the game's first score.

Wild Throw

Here came Bernardino's error—a wild throw to second on Ray Boone's grounder, Doby scampered over home plate on the play. Jim Hegan's long fly to center brought Kennedy in with the third run.

With Feller at bat, Boone tried to come home on a squeeze play and twisted his ankle as Catcher Less Moss tagged him after Feller's swing missed. Starr walked Feller and the next three batters in a row, to force the fourth Cleveland run.

Another righthander, Duane Pillette, replaced Starr for the Browns. He breezed a third strike past Al Rosen, and the Indians' offensive was done for the day. Pillette scattered three singles and walked five the rest of the way, but he never was in trouble.

"I felt as strong in the ninth as I did at the start," Bob said. "My curve was just so-so, but I was fast enough to get by."

Manager Al Lopez said Feller "looked real good," and added: "In fact, all the pitchers have, and I'm sticking with my regular rotation." That will bring up Early Wynn and Mike Garcia for the double-header which closes out the Browns' series here tomrrow.

Iberia Dumps Johnsville, 2-1

IBERIA, April 21—Iberia edged scrappy Leesville here yesterday, 2-1. Three Leesville hurlers held Iberia to four safeties but received little help at the plate .Trailing 2-1 in the seventh inning, Leesville managed to get the tying run on base but a quick Mains to Miller to Poulton double play erased the threat.

The Presidents travel to Cardington Monday for a night game and will be at Johnsville Tuesday.

Red Birds Win Over Minneapolis

Columbus pushed Minneapolis into the second division of the early American Association race with a 4-3 victory over the Millers last night. The Red Birds took two of three games in the opening series with Minneapolis, last year's champions.

Luis Arroyo went the distance for Columbus, although touched for 11 hits. His long triple in the ninth inning, followed by Roy Broome's fly to centerfield, provided the winning run.

The Columbus - Minneapolis game was the only one scheduled yesterday.

Toledo, the only undefeated team, still holds the Association lead after its three straight wins over St. Paul.

Massillon Named To Gridiron Hall of Fame

MASSILLON, O., April 21—(AP)—A trophy to a football hall of fame being established at Rutgers University was presented to Massillon High School last night.

Art Matsu, assistant grid coach at Rutgers, said Ohio scholastic football is recognized as the best in the nation. He said it was therefore fitting that Massillon, as state champions for the past three years, should be the first high school so honored.

Permanent possession of the trophy will go to the Ohio school that wins it three straight times.

PREVIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS AT THE THEATERS

Susan Hayward, Dailey In Film at Palace

"I Can Get It For You Wholesale," a romantic drama based on a famous novel by Jerome Weidman and starring Susan Hayward, Dan Dailey and George Sanders, opens Sunday at the Palace Theater and will play through Tuesday.

The background of the story is the garment industry of New York and it tells of a young lady who is determined to rise to power in the fashion world at the cost of walking over a few people on her way up.

Susan Hayward portrays an ambitious dress designer who wants to get to the top in her business. Dan Dailey is seen as a salesman, while George Sanders plays the role of a department store tycoon, who soon after meeting Susan informs her that he can make her one of the country's leading designers of fine evening gowns.

Wednesday only, the theater has been reserved for the presentation of the Harding High School senior class play, "Cheaper By the Dozen."

Billed for Thursday through Saturday is a double feature, "The Groom Wore Spurs" and "Under the Gun." The former stars Ginger Rogers and Jack Carson with Joan Davis, and heading the cast in the latter are Richard Conte and Audrey Totter.

The former is the story of a feminine lawyer whose legal work for a big-time celluloid Western star lands her in a Las Vegas wedding chapel. In "Under the Gun," Richard Conte plays the role of a New York racketeer who becomes involved in a small-town killing. He then is sentenced to the local prison which is governed by a unique ruling that if a prison trusty kills another convict making an attempted escape, the trusty then becomes eligible for a pardon. Suspense is created when Conte engineers his release from prison by means of a murderous scheme.

Starting Sunday, April 29, will be "The Lemon Drop Kid," a comedy based on a Damon Runyon story and starring Bob Hope with Marilyn Maxwell, Lloyd Nolan and Jane Darwell.

Double Feature Billed at Ohio

A double feature, "I Was A Communist For the FBI" starring Frank Lovejoy and featuring Dorothy Hart and Philip Carey, and "Panic In The Streets" starring Richard Widmark, Paul Douglas and Barbara Bel Geddes, opens tonight in a midnight show at the New Ohio Theater and will continue through Tuesday.

The story in the former takes Matt Cvetic, federal operative, on a dangerous mission into the lair of an espionage ring. To fulfill the requirements of this duty, Cvetic had to turn his back on all previous connections. He became one of the people he had been assigned to investigate, a target for the abuse of his friends and the bullets of his enemy, living a double life until the FBI gave the signal to move in.

"Panic in the Streets" details the crisis that strikes a great city threatened by a plague. It is centered on a man-hunt for the killer or killers of a man who had a pneumonic plague, making them a hazard to the whole community. Tuesday night only, on the stage of the theater, will be conducted the "Star Search" talent hunt contest, being staged over a four-state area by Station WLW. The program will begin at 9 p.m.

Opening Wednesday to play through Sunday will be a western production, "Only the Valiant" starring Gregory Peck and Barbara Payton.

The film covers the dramatic period when Indian conflicts menaced the settlers of the early southwest, and tells the story of one particularly exciting episode. In this episode, Peck, as Captain Richard Lance an officer admired by his men as a soldier yet hated for the iron qualities of discipline which have made him a great leader, takes a patrol out in a desperate effort to save an entire fort from annihilation.

Billed for Wednesday through Saturday is "Kim," movielands picturization of Rudyard Kipling's immortal story of romance, adventure and intrigue. The stars are Errol Flynn and Dean Stockwell, with Paul Lukas and Robert Douglas in leading roles.

Opening Thursday to play through Saturday will be a technicolor production, "Streets of Laredo" starring William Holden, William Bendix, Macdonald Carey and Mona Freeman.

"Streets of Lareado" is the dramatic story of three friends who knew no law but their loyalty to each other. Banded together in banditry, two of them are forced by circumstances into joining the Rangers, but expecting to plan bigger and bolder robberies with the information to which they have access as Rangers. But something happens that makes good Rangers of them and pits them against the third friend who was sticking to his lawless guns.

War Movies Billed At Marion Theater

"Outrages of the Orient" and "Bayonet Charge" is the double feature billing for Sunday and Monday at the Marion Theater, and also a midnight show tonight.

The former picture portrays the valiant struggle of the Filipino people in their fight for freedom when the peaceful country was invaded by the Japanese during World War II. The latter film, which stars Jean Gabin, tells of a criminal who escapes from a French prison during a Nazi air raid, and under the identity of a dead French soldier becomes a hero on the fighting front in Africa.

Billed for Tuesday and Wednesday are "Right Cross" starring Dick Powell and June Allyson, and "A Lady Without Passport" starring Hedy Lamarr and John Hodiak.

Aquarium Is Latest Interest

Crawford Co. Children's Home Has Another First

Special to The Star

GALION, April 20—An aquarium unit, gift of several Bucyrus and Galion men, is the newest interest of the boys and girls who live in the Crawford County Children's Home

County Commissioner Earl Leonard sponsored the project to raise funds for the three acquariums of tropical fish and tropical plants which are arranged as one unit. It is an attraction in the basement recreation room at the Home The donors are Walter Michael, J. A O'Donnell, A. P Topper, M C. Acree, Dale Welling, S. S Powers, all of Bucyrus and C. Findlay Boyd of Galion.

The idea for the project came from the superintendent of the Home, Marvin Adams. He and Mrs Adams have done much to erase the stigma of an institution from the Home, and to promote a character developing program.

Three Aquariums

A 90-gallon aquarium is in the center of the group, while two 15-gallon aquariums flank each side. Contributions also paid for the cabinets on which the aquariums are mounted The cabinets also provide place to file records for the music machine. All of the glass acquariums are lighted with fluorescent tubing. Supt. Adams let the older children at the Home plan the arrangement of the tropical plants in the aquariums.

Many species of fish in the aquariums make a fascinating study. With the exception of the zebra fish, all of the fish are live bearers. There are angel fish, fighters or bettas, gold and blue flatties, white cloud, neon tetras, striped barbs, black mollies, red sword tail fish, crescent moon or gold platty, tropical catfish, blood fin tetra, glass fish, head and tail light fish, tuxedo swordtail, gupies, and others. Most of the fish are secured through Barry Savage who is proprietor of Larry's aquarium in Bucyrus

Hold Study Periods

Since the aquariums were installed on March 20, the children of the Home have been studying four books and acquainting themselves with tropical fish. Eventually, the children will raise the fish to sell to private acquariums and nurseries

Every evening, a small group of the children may be found gathered for study. This is conducted either by Supt. Adams or Gerald Thoman, 17-year-old boy who lives at the Home and who has made an extensive study of tropical fish. He also is responsible for all feeding and cleaning

The Home has had many firsts in the state, and perhaps the nation A glee club, composed of boys and girls of the Home is thought to be the only one of its kind in the state. Supt. Adams is director of the group The singers have made many appearances on radio and other programs

Many Features

Other features to keep the boys and girls happily at work and play during the day include lessons of the finer arts of homemaking gardening, food preparation and preservation, animal husbandry and agriculture.

It is believed that the Crawford County Children's Home has the distinction of being the only one of its kind in the state to provide a summer camping trip for the boys and girls The entire group spends from two to four weeks each summer camping out at Camp Avery Hand.

Dogs, monkeys, parrots and cats are among the many pets the children have had to love and care for at the Home.

For the boys and girls showing special interest and aptitude for instrumental music, weekly music lessons are made available. A piano teacher, Mrs. Charles Hinckley, makes special trips to the Home and accompanies the glee club.

Cocoa does not normally grow beyond 20 degrees north or south of the equator.

Grange Hears Report By Elmer Williams

At a meeting of Grand Prairie Grange held Tuesday night, April 10, Elmer Williams gave a report on Grange insurance in regard to new rulings in auto insurance, and also a report on the last Pomona meeting held April 7. William Hutchman, master, presided Plans were made to present Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Dean a gift sometime in the near future for their faithfulness to the organization They have moved to another community. A contribution was voted to the crippled children's society fund. Mrs Vern Lucas submitted thanks to the Grange for a basket of fruit sent her family during a recent illness.

The program included group singing, a poem on spring housecleaning by Howard Hinamon, an article, "The Rat Problem," by E. A. Williams, a reading, "The Sad Story of Willy Rat., by Miss Helen Lyon, a saxophone solo "When I Grow Too Old To Dream," by Miss Jacqueline Constable, accompanied by Mrs. Hazel Hinamon, a report of the state convention in word and pictures by Mr. and Mrs. Junior Bosley of Salt Rock Grange and a grand march led by Howard and Hazel Hinamon.

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

Knowing my father's little ways, Mr. "X" held up a pencil and pad of paper in mute answer to "the chief's" question. But, with sudden remembrance, I braved my father's dislike of interruptions by putting a question to his brilliant F.B.I aide

"Have you had luncheon, 'X'?"

His hesitation was barely noticeable.

"I had a very late breaskfast." he said. "I don't need luncheon."

"Yes, you do," my father said quickly. "Do not leave here until you have eaten But, surely, Margaret, you do not have to do anything about it until you have dictated to 'X' the information I wish him to have."

"As you wish," I said demurely. "I thought that if I telephoned Katie from here—taking less than a minute—she could be preparing the lunch, and thus save time."

An unexpected grin twisted my father's lips.

"Set—and game—," he said. "Go ahead, telephone Katie."

I went to the inter-communicating telephone, rang Katie, gave her instructions to get lunch for Mr. "X" at once, as he was starting for New York, and came back in less than the minute I had named but with my lips twitching beyond my power to control them. An answering and understanding grin touched the corners of Mr. "X's" lips, but he made no audible comment

"You might as well tell us," my father said, smiling. "What did Katie say?"

"Just her usual cheery answer, 'Me, I feex,' that she intended me to hear," I told them, "but before she hung up the telephone, patently in the belief that I had hung up mine. she muttered: 'Beeg hush hush stoof goin' on. I bet my ooots' "

My father laughed aloud and with a feeling of release "X", Dicky and I joined him.

"Katie always can be counted on to furnish us the catharsis of laughter." my father commented. "But if she weren't so trustworthy—"

He left the sentence died there, and nodded to us. We knew what that meant, and I began to dictate to "X" the things which Dicky's nephew, Bill, had told me about his financee, Mildred Gray.

When I had finished, my father looked over at "X."

"What do you think of that description, 'X'?" he asked. "I already know my daughter's reaction."

"I should say, from adding this to her dossier," the F B I. man drawled, "that Bill had picked himself quite a gal."

"I agree with you," my father said, with unusual heartiness. "What about you, Richard?"

"Them's bin my sentiments, right along," Dicky parodied atrociously, and my father nodded.

"That makes it unanimous Neverthless, I must see her personally, before I give the green light for her joining the scheme to trap the son of my prize suspect. So the first necessity is speed in arranging with the president of Mildred's college for my seeing her without her dreaming my purpose."

He gave "X" a significant look, and his aide countered with a question.

"Have you any more instructions for me before I go, Chief?" he asked.

"Not a word," my father replied. "I already have briefed you on everything. So you may start as soon as you wish after eating your luncheon, and transcribing your notes"

"If I may borrow your study. Mrs. Graham," the F.B.I. man said, "I'll transcribe the notes there, telling Katie she may call me there when her lunch is ready"

"That is a very good plan," my father approved. "And, I do not need to detain either you or Richard, Margaret, any longer I feel as if I had fitted the last piece into the first of my jig-saw puzzles" size, its religion, the wealth of its capital city were but added incentives and inducements to an impecunious conqueror. For wealth is no protection against aggression It is no more an augury of military and defensive strength in a nation than it is an indication of health in an individual Success in war depends upon men. not money. No nation has ever been subdued for lack of it Indeed, nothing is more insolent or provocative or more apt to lead to a breach of the peace than undefended riches among armed men."

* * *

IT IS WHEN the hard core of a people's tradition rots away and nothing remains but individual excesses and competitions for place, that a nation perishes It is in this same speech that MacArthur said in 1935 what is so absolutely true in 1951:

". . . We all dream of the day when human conduct will be governed by the Decalogue and the Sermon on the Mount. But, as yet it is only a dream No one desires peace as much as the soldier for he must pay the greatest penalty in war. Our Army is maintained solely for the preservation of peace—or, for the restoration of peace after it has been lost by statesmen or by others"

A Hymn Is Born
BY CLINT BONNER

Jesus, Saviour Pilot Me

The hymn that was written for sailors

It was April 23, 1888. The Rev. Edward Hopper settled back in an easy chair in his study. The Presbyterian minister had a weak heart and, at 72, he was living on borrowed time. But he felt up to writing so he took a pencil and paper and started outlining a hymn. Nobody knew how many hymns the modest minister had written because he rarely signed them and even when he did he usually used fictional names. During the week days the Rev. Hopper worked among the sailors. On Sundays he preached to them at New York Harbor's "Church of the Sea and Land." But when he cast his bread upon the waters through his hymn writing he always stayed in the background.

Edward Hopper was a man of the city. He was born and educated in New York and, after pastorates at Greenville, N. Y. and Sag Harbor, Long Island, he was elected to the church at the harbor with its congregation of sailors. Like Methodist Charles Wesley, who often wrote hymns to fit his various congregations, Hopper wrote for the men who go out to sea in ships, "They Pray the Best Who Pray and Watch" and "Wrecked and Struggling in Mid-Ocean." In 1871 one of his hymns was published in "The Sailor's Magazine" and Philadelphia's Composer John Edgar Gould set it to music the night before he sailed for Africa for his health. When it was learned that Gould had died in Algiers the sailors mourned the death of the man who had set "Jesus Saviour Pilot Me" to music but none of the Rev. Hopper's congregation knew their own pastor had written the words.

When they found Edward Hopper he was still seated in his chair. The pencil was in his hand and a sheet of paper with the outline of a hymn had floated to the floor. The title was "Heaven" but there was no name of the author. Even if the hymn had been finished it is doubtful anybody would have known who wrote it. The sailors' hymn was sung nine years before anybody knew it was the Rev. Edward Hopper who wrote. . . .

Jesus, Saviour, pilot me
Over life's tempestuous sea;
Unknown waves before me roll,
Hiding rocks and treacherous shoal;
Chart and compass come from Thee,
Jesus, Saviour, pilot me.

As a mother stills her child,
Thou canst hush the ocean wild;
Boisterous waves obey Thy will,
When Thou sayest to them "Be still!"
Wondrous Sovereign of the sea,
Jesus, Saviour, pilot me.

When at last I near the shore,
And the fearful breakers roar
'Twixt me and the peaceful rest,
Then, while leaning on Thy breast,
May I hear Thee say to me,
"Fear not, I will pilot thee."

The Power of God

A Sermonette

By REV. L HARRISON LUDWIG

Pastor of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church

> "We preach Christ crucified, unto the Jews a stumbling block, and unto the Greeks foolishness; but unto them which are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God, and the wisdom of God."
> —I Corinthians 1:23,24.

OUR modern attitudes toward the Gospel of Christ are not so very much different from the attitudes which were found in the first century. Paul found many who turned away from the Gospel and regarded it as sheer foolishness while others believed in it and found it to be the power of God.

To the Greeks the Gospel was foolishness. The Greek has come to us as the devotee of wisdom. When we think of ancient Greece we think of the philosophers—Plato, Socrates and Aristotle. Everything that was believed was first tested by the power of reason. The Gospel was foolishness.

This is very much like our own age. We live in an age that is very critical of everything that it hears. Many of the things that were accepted a few centuries ago are thrown aside as of no value whatsoever. We say that in other days men and women were subjects of superstition but today it is different Several hundreds of years ago the appeal to miracles was very effective. Today that approach falls on deaf ears. Now I believe that we must use our minds in our study of the Bible. The Greeks have given us much—we owe them a debt of gratitude. We must reason in our approach to Christ. But our reason must take everything into account—even the fact to Christ.

* * *

CHRIST WAS A stumbling block to the Jews. The Jews had their ideas of Christ all arranged. They said in effect: We know how the Messiah is to come, you have not come that way, therefore, you cannot be the Messiah. He had not come in the established, predetermined way. We find these folks among us today Religion must come according to a set pattern, religious reactions must be just this way, everything is prescribed and determined and everything that is not in accord with that set of beliefs and actions cannot be Christian.

The preaching of the cross was foolishness to the Greek who seeks after wisdom. It was a stumbling block to the Jew who had the whole world arranged and knows how things must be done. If anything happened that did not fit into the philosophy of the Greek it would be cast aside and he would laugh at it. If anything came along that did not fit into the scheme of the Jew he would crucify it. But that is not the end of the story.

There are some chosen few who have accepted the Gospel of Christ as the truth of life. They may have arrived at that conclusion by devious ways. Peter arrived one way, Paul another. Paul was very much impressed by the power of God, impressed because he knew that power from personal experience.

* * *

THERE ARE THOSE among us who are afraid of this power of God. Since it is the power of God it must be something unusual and therefore we had better be careful of it. We do not want to be shaken out of our routine way of doing things. We do not want to be involved in anything beyond the routine of our own lives. In having this reaction we are at least recognizing that there is a power of God. It is able to take us and use us It can and will transform our own lives. It will use us in ways that are marvelous and wonderful.

The power of God comes into the lives of those who are saved—those who recognize that there is a wisdom and power of God in the Cross of Christ. It comes to those who have given their lives over completely to God and the Cross of Christ. They have gotten beyond wisdom and foolishness and have placed their entire future in the Cross of Christ. When Paul knew the power of God in his life he said of his preaching: "Woe is me if I preach not the Gospel". He claimed no glory for himself—it was all in the new life that Christ had given to him.

* * *

WHEN JESUS was talking to a certain young man he had occasion to say: "One thing thou lackest". This young man was willing to go a certain way but when it demanded a full commitment to a new way of life he was not equal to the occasion. Christ demands everything. He is Lord of all or He is not Lord at all. The power of Christ is a constantly transforming power. The great saints have known that they did not achieve all the power at one time. It was something that was constantly happening Those who live with Christ from day to day are being led into more and more knowledge and experience of the power of God. It is a constant force, moving us out to live for Christ in the world, win souls for Christ, witness for Christ in our world. The power of God in Paul's life was more demanding than any other power on earth. When giving the goal of his life he stated that he would know "the power of His resurrection, and the fellowship of His sufferings" He had not attained that "but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus".

—Confident Living—

How You Can Get Out Of A Mental Rut

—By Norman Vincent Peale—

WINSTON CHURCHILL says that he regularly gives his mind a going over, that is, a process of mental freshening during which he reexamines his ideas and attitudes. All of us should take time to do the same kind of job on ourselves. Human nature tends to run to a pattern and we become victims of routine. We eat the same old breakfast, walk to work or to the store down the same old street, use the same methods of doing things. Nothing may be wrong with any of these, but isn't it always possible to find a better way of doing something?

Dr. Peale

Our thinking gets into ruts, too. Take the case of a man I know. He was forty, married, and had two sons. All his life he had a tragic flair for failure. He had an inferiority complex and the very bad habit of negative thinking. He thought failure and he got failure. His many failures filled him with petty hates and jealousies. He and his wife used to lay in bed nights figuring out the nasty remarks they were going to make to people they didn't like. They would rehearse what they were going to say in telling them off.

Living this way, the man sank deeper and deeper into his own rut and pulled his wife and children after him. Then, one day, he was reading a magazine and happened upon a quotation from the Bible which read, "If you have faith even as a grain of mustard seed, nothing shall be impossible unto you.' This new thought seemed to take hold of him and eventually it got him out of his rut.

* * *

HOW IT DID THIS is a unique and thrilling story. He would, at first, concentrate on the idea of faith and things would seem to go better. But, then the idea would fade, and back he would be in the same old rut. Finally, he conceived the idea of actually carrying a mustard seed around with him in his pocket so that he would be constantly reminded of the necessity of faith. But you can't carry anything that small around without losing it, so he got the idea of imbedding it in a plastic ball the size of a marble.

Other people saw him fingering this reminder and asked him about it. Soon he was making them for other people, for watch chains and bracelets. Today, this "mustard seed remembrancer" is being worn by thousands of people and is the chief product of a good-sized factory.

Think about it A man reads a Bible passage about a mustard seed and turns it into an idea that not only brings faith to thousands but has provided him with a good living ever since. He is a new man today, with new vigor, new outlook, new power, new life. He really took this idea of faith and used it as a ladder to climb out of his rut. He put into actual practice the principle that if you have faith, nothing is impossible and he achieved amazing results.

* * *

THIS MAN GOT OUT of a deep mental rut in which he was floundering hopelessly, where he had been for a long time. Today, he'll tell you that positive thinking, faith in God and faith in yourself can get a person out of any rut.

"If you have faith even as a grain of mustard seed, nothing shall be impossible to you." Start thinking positively by engraving those words in your mind right now. Get a "mustard seed remembrancer" or make one so that you won't forget them. Use faith in God to get you out of your rut and then use faith in yourself, which always follows real spiritual faith, to keep you from getting bogged down again.

There are great new levels of living to be achieved. Give your ideas and thoughts a going over. Look into your patterns of living Change them if need be. Revitalize yourself with faith. Don't wait; get out of that rut now!

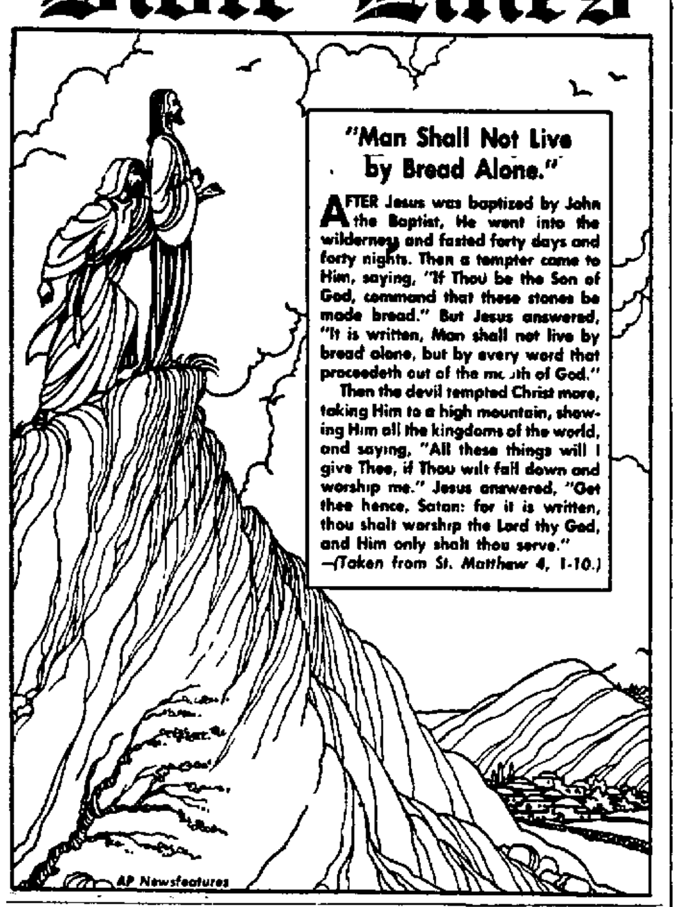
Bible Lines



"Man Shall Not Live by Bread Alone."

AFTER Jesus was baptized by John the Baptist, He went into the wilderness and fasted forty days and forty nights. Then a tempter came to Him, saying, "If Thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread." But Jesus answered, "It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

Then the devil tempted Christ more, taking Him to a high mountain, showing Him all the kingdoms of the world, and saying, "All these things will I give Thee, if Thou wilt fall down and worship me." Jesus answered, "Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve."

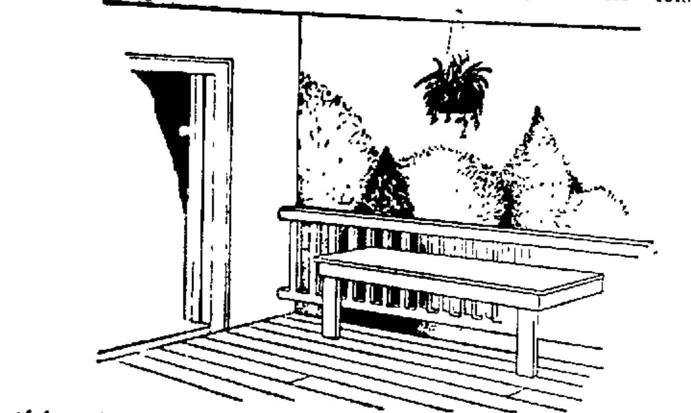
Open Porch Flower Bench



A great many country houses have an open porch which the family convert into an outdoor living-room during the summer months. Often it is used for dining at breakfast and luncheon, and much effort is spent in making it attractive and comfortable.

More often than not, this type of furnished porch is well stocked with potted flowers and plants and furnished with comfortable chairs and convenient tables. One of the chief drawbacks is the fact that the tables are crowded with plants and vases, to the detriment of ash-trays, books and other articles that go with leisure hours.

One or more railing-tables of the type illustrated will furnish space for several flower pots on each, and at a pinch can substitute for side-tables during meals or a bar during the cocktail hours.

The building of these tables is simplicity itself. A length of plain finishing strip is nailed to the porch railing at the desired height, a piece of eleven-inch shelving makes the top, and an apron of finishing strip is run around under the top as shown. Two pieces of the strip furnish the front legs and the assembly is completed. The bench or table should be painted to match the railing usually a white color. Contrasting colors are not recommended.

One of the best things about these conveniences is the fact that if you find the bench in the wrong place after a while, the top can be tapped up off the strip on the railing, the strip pried off and the whole thing moved to a better location, and no indication of the former location is left save three or four neat nail-holes in the rail.

This is a particularly good idea for the porch that lacks enough furniture, and as the items cost less than three dollars each, there are few who cannot afford them.

The design shown is for a four foot long bench. It can be used in any length required, with the provision that an additional leg be added for each additional three feet in length.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Porch Leaks Into Cellar

Q.: We have a small screened-in back porch with regular flooring. The basement extends under this porch and every time it rains—it pours—downstairs through the cracks in the porch flooring. Is there anything we can put on the porch floor to prevent the rain from going into the basement?

A.: The best thing to do is to cover the porch floor with top quality roofing canvas This is not tent canvas. When laid correctly according to the directions given by the manufacturer this covering will be waterproof and also provide a good surface for foot traffic and movement of furniture. You might plan to put double windows in place of the screening. This would check leakage of rain through these openings.

"Dead Spots" In Walls

Q.: We built a new home The painter painted the bathroom, giving it just one coat of paint. Now we have what they call "dead spots" in the plaster. If we should put one coat of this new one-coat paint on, would the spots stay covered. Or do we have to use tile? It's on the lower half of the wall

A.: You don't say what kind of paint was used nor do you say how soon after plastering the paint was applied. Oil paint should not be put on new plaster until it has dried out thoroughly and this usually takes about two months. Since the walls are now painted, you can coat them with a water-mixed rubber base wall paint and I do not think the "dead spots" will show through This kind of paint dries with a satin finish and is suitable for bathroom walls Most of the better-stocked paint dealers carry it in stock or they can get it for you.

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

X-Ray Process Makes Blood Vessels Visible

Under ordinary circumstances, blood vessels do not show on X-ray pictures because they are soft tissues. Recently, however, physicians have found a way to make them visible to the X-ray camera, and thus, to the eyes of medical experts, through means of a special contrast dye.

This dye is injected into the vessels and split seconds later X-ray pictures are taken of the areas they serve. This process is known as angiography and it has made possible a number of great strides forward, giving the doctor information heretofore entirely unobtainable.

Until now it has been used chiefly in the study of diseases of the heart It is especially useful in determining the type and severity of defects in children born with congenital heart disease As a result of these studies, doctors can now more accurately determine whether, in a given case, the type of defect can be remedied by surgical means Angiography has also been utilized in the study of tumors, or other disorders affecting the brain. Dye is injected into the large carotid arteries which supply most of the blood to the brain. By means of this dye and subsequent X-ray exposures, the presence of tumors, abscesses, or even hemorrhage in the brain structure can be more accurately determined Not only can the presence of this defect be determined but its exact location can be visualized Proper treatment, frequently consisting of surgery, can now be furnished patients with such disease, where heretofore surgery was not possible because the defect could not be located.

ON THE HOUSE

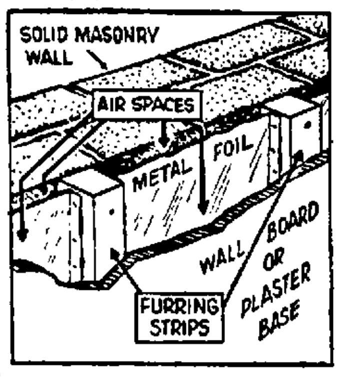
By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

(First of Two Articles on Mildew)

WHAT IS THAT musty smell you notice in a summer cottage that has been closed? You'll notice it also in basements—sometimes even in new houses.

It's mildew.

It can cause wood to rot, spoil paint surfaces, ruin clothing, bedding, books, stored luggage and sports equipment.



Being a form of mold—a fungus that can grow on dead matter—it is dependent on dampness and warmth. That's why you may find it so quickly in new houses—because moisture is retained in building materials, in the concrete work, the mortar, plaster, etc. This mold is planted by spores carried in the dust in the air. Unless its formation is prevented or eliminated, mildew can do irreparable damage.

But sunlight and dry air will kill it so usually it is not difficult to get rid of it. The first step is to remove all causes of dampness wherever possible.

* * *

IN SOME CASES dampness is caused by excessive condensation. T. McS. of Cincinnati reports a serious example of this type. He recently bought a solid masonry house "a wire-cut brick house about 12 years old," he says. He is bothered with mildew in his built-in kitchen cabinets and in closets "from top to bottom."

Very apparently condensation is the root of his problem. He says. "During a cold spell my living room walls were wet. The walls are not furred. The cellar itself is not damp looking. The frame of the garage door was so rotted away that I removed it and water just poured from the blocks."

He wants to know if a waterproof coating might remedy the condition. That is doubtful, unless there is definite evidence of seepage from the outside by capillary action. If such were the case, a good transparent waterproof coating could be used. But his solid masonry construction, without furring, seems to be a dead giveaway for condensation.

To control condensation in structures of solid masonry construction is especially difficult.

* * *

EXTENSIVE STUDIES in the prevention of mildew were made by the General Electric Consumers' Institute at Bridgeport, Conn. After experiments, the researchers recommended:

1. If musty odors in basements do not disappear after a house is well heated and dried, and the basement well ventilated, sprinkle chloride of lime over the basement floor and let it stand until all mustiness vanishes.

2. In purchasing cotton shower curtains, awning, tents or sails, be sure the material has been treated with chemicals to render it mildew-resistant.

3. Books in a closed bookcase can be kept from mildewing if they are dusted from time to time with small amounts of paraformaldehyde, or a small electric lamp can be burned in the bookcase to keep it warm and dry.

4. Closet doors and dresser drawers can be left open occasionally on dry days to keep moisture from collecting and to stir up the enclosed air. An electric fan should be directed in places that cannot be exposed to outdoor breezes on dry days.

5. Musty closets can be freshened by burning a small electric lamp continuously, or by placing an open container of solid calcium chloride in the closet and keeping the door closed.

* * *

DEHYRATION and sunlight, of course, are the two fundamental weapons for fighting mildew. You can't get sunlight into all corners of a house, so ventilation and artificial dry warmth are about the only expedients.

The General Electric experimenters warn that a house should not be ventilated for mildew except when the outdoor air is cooler and drier than the indoor air—on a cool evening when the humidity is relatively low. They recommend that if such thorough airing proves insufficient the house may be heated for a short time. Then the doors and windows can be opened to let out the warmed air that has absorbed extra moisture. Electric fans speed up that transfer.

Veterans and Draftees Guide —

—By—
Major Thomas M. Nial

FROM L. E. M. of Gardendale, Ala.: "I'm 17 and in the Naval Reserve. Will I have to register for the draft when I turn 18? Can I be drafted out of the USNR if I attend all meetings and drills?"

You must register, but it's still Selective Service policy not to draft any National Guardsmen or reservists in organized units as long as they keep up with their drill and training. Be sure to state in your draft questionnaire that you are in a reserve unit.

* * *

FROM A. R. U. of Albany N.Y.: "My husband was recalled as a sergeant in the Air Force reserves and I started drawing an allotment for myself only. Now we have a baby. Are we allowed more allotment?"

No. In the top four enlisted pay grades there are just two allotment groups: Those with two or fewer dependents and those with three or more. It makes no difference whether a serviceman in those grades has one or two dependents. The allotment is the same.

Likewise, it makes no difference whether he has three or 30 dependents. If you have a second child, making three dependents including yourself, the allotment will increase but it will not be upped further if your husband starts supporting more than three dependents.

In the bottom three pay grades, the allotment is different for one, two and three dependents, but here again it remains the same when the number of dependents gets to be more than three.

* * *

FROM A MOTHER in Jersey City, N. J.: "My son registered at 18 with a draft board in Oklahoma. Can he have his records transferred in his home state?"

He cannot have his records transferred, but he may be inducted in New Jersey.

Under the 1948 draft law, once you register with a board your records remain with that board for good. However, if your son should get orders to report for a pre-induction physical, he may take them to a draft board near him in New Jersey and have that board send him in for the exam. The results will be sent to his Oklahoma board.

Then should he get the Order to Report for Induction, he may again go around to a nearby board and be sent off for induction by it, but for administrative reasons he will be counted in the Oklahoma quota.

* * *

FROM N.K.G. of Bridgeport, Conn.: "My recall as a reservist will interrupt my GI course. Can I resume the course when I'm separated, even though that will be after the July 25, 1951, cut-off date?"

Yes. You must resume it "within a reasonable period" after separation, says the VA. But you must finish all GI training by July 25, 1956.

Incidentally, the July 25 deadline this summer applies to GI education and training only, not to GI loans. The VA will be guaranteeing veterans' loans until July 25, 1957.

THERE are now three general groups of opinion about the issue dramatized by President Truman's decision to relieve Gen. MacArthur of his command in the Orient.

One group is claiming that Gen. MacArthur is 100 percent right. One group claims that President Truman is right—perhaps not 100 percent but more like 85 percent.

The third group is inclined to believe that when the pros and cons have been thoroughly aired it is not going to be necessary to line up with either the MacArthur or the Truman advocates. The solution to the problem of a workable Asiatic policy, they believe, will be a mixture of everything now being brought under review by public opinion.

Members of this third group are relieved of the apparent necessity of jumping at a conclusion they do not fully understand. They can be grateful to Gen. MacArthur for his palpable integrity and for the positive leadership he represents and yet be aware that the men on the other side of the issue also are sincerely trying to do the right thing.

This is a republic. Its citizens are free to discuss their problems. Certainly one of the great problems midway in the 20th century is how to let Asians know that their revolt against colonialism has American support.

It is unlikely that anyone has the definitive answer to that problem now. It will be evolved out of discussion and experience. The main body of public opinion will find its position eventually between the alternatives offered at the outset of the discussion.

Gen. MacArthur's greatest contribution to date is the reminder that there is more involved than the Communist conspiracy.

Gambling on Peiping

ONE of the results of understanding Gen. MacArthur's point of view is going to be a desire for more information about the Truman Administration's point of view.

The charge that the Truman Administration is confused about Asiatic policy must be made, also against the public. It shares the confusion.

It has not tried very hard to understand what the Administration's line of reasoning is—and the Administration, in turn, has not tried very hard to explain. In fact, it took the MacArthur incident to make Mr. Truman realize the importance of making any statement at all.

The key to the issue now joined between the Truman and MacArthur schools of thought is the attitude of Peiping, capital of Communist China.

What has not been made obvious and probably cannot even be talked about, because it is at the bottom of the gamble being made by Washington, is the hope of disagreement between Peiping and the Kremlin.

If the gamble proved successful, Peiping would be persuaded to turn against the Kremlin for reasons of self-interest. That is believed to be the Kremlin's great worry about Communist China—that its leaders, like Tito in Yugoslavia, might declare their independence of Stalin's regime.

In that event the war in Korea could be brought to a close by agreement with Peiping—an agreement which would be contrary to the Kremlin. The war in Asia might be limited successfully to the Korean peninsula. This might be brought about by assuming that Chinese Communists are capable of independent decisions; that they are not dominated by Russian Communists. Gen. MacArthur himself, believes that [illegible] more nationalistic than communistic.

He said before Congress: "There is little of the [illegible] either one way or another [illegible]. The standard of living [illegible] the capital accumulation has been [illegible] by war that the masses [illegible] eager to follow any leadership [illegible] promise the alleviation of woeful [illegible]."

Petty Politics Reproved

By David Lawrence

Stature of Gen. MacArthur Grows Larger

LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON

THEY came, they saw and they heard. They — the Congress of the United States went away profoundly impressed that here was no ordinary man, no ordinary soldier, no ordinary general. For here was a statesman speaking, a man from the pages of history whose dramatic appeal to his countrymen for courage against defeatism, for boldness and resoluteness against softness and appeasement will be recorded for all time as the appeal magnificent. Here was Douglas MacArthur closing 52 years of military service to his country.

Those partisans who came expecting a political dynamic or a petty complaint against the fate that deprived him of his command in such humiliating manner found an entirely different spokesman. His speech was the voice of the soldier caught in a trap in Korea but serving his flag and not asking the reason why. His speech was the voice of the America of yesteryears when Americans did not prate of defeat and speak with fear and trembling to the enemy that had despoiled a weaker nation and tortured or killed prisoners.

Members of the Senate and House—Republicans and Democrats—listened as if transfixed. They heard a man of deep conviction, talking with an emotion restrained with difficulty as he told of Asia—the far-off continent where revolutionary changes are in progress. He told of Japan, beaten six years ago, but now on the way to democracy. He spoke feelingly of the desperate effort of the Korean people to save their independence. He spoke sympathetically of the slow but sure evolution of government in the Philippines.

* * *

BUT THE SPEECH was not one of mere sentiment. It was the well-mobilized argument of a man who for a quarter of a century or more has studied the Far East—its culture and its aspirations against colonialism. He spoke as a liberal about the hopes of peoples as against tyrants. He did not fail to speak also of the great hopes of the world for peace by means of collective security.

All the ideals of America General MacArthur articulated with the measured phrases of a statesman. All the hopes of the world for an end to war as a means of settling disputes he championed with wholehearted devotion. But, he warned, once a nation enters a war, there is no time for retreat or appeasement, no time for compromise. He said with an emphasis that shook the chamber with applause: "There is no substitute for victory."

The general built up point by point the case for a defense line in the far Pacific—Japan, Formosa and the Philippines. He said if that line was broken, our own Pacific coast would not be safe. And then he emphasized why it was important to hold Formosa.

* * *

THE STATEMENT that came as the biggest surprise was his flat declaration that the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff in the past had agreed with this military strategy.

There will, of course, be controversy over various points in the speech. It will be debated and perhaps investigating committees of Congress will ask for the documents and evidence relating to it.

The General has notified Senator Russell, chairman of the Senate armed services committee, that while he does not want to get into a controversy or pursue these matters, he will willingly cooperate with the committee should it desire him to amplify his views. So Senator Russell plans next week to fix a time, possibly for the following week, when the armed services committee will go into details, with General MacArthur as a witness.

Meanwhile, the national capital still is shocked by the whole affair. The reception given General MacArthur was so striking that it could not but overwhelm for the time being almost every other activity of the government. The welcome to the General was, of course, a tribute to a great soldier as well as to a soldier-statesman.

* * *

BUT IT WAS ALSO a human reaction to the summary way in which a great general has been instantly relieved of his command without even being given the opportunity to say farewell to his troops. No similar case is on record in all the history of the United States. Generals have been ordered to relinquish their commands but on none has such a sentence been imposed — without trial—with so abrupt a detachment from his command without a real word of explanation of what orders or instructions he had violated, if any. The conclusion is inescapable—General MacArthur was made the victim of the petty political spirit of our times.

The stature of General MacArthur, after his address to Congress, looms larger and makes an even deeper imprint on the pages of history. He was magnificent in his words of farewell. It was an hour of triumph in which the people, in effect, repudiated the sad implications of government by petty politics and raised their eyes with hope as they heard the first words of real leadership that have come from the national capital in many a long year.

When the Gods Giggle

By TRUMAN TWILL

IT ALWAYS happens this way. Every time fortune comes within reach, someone snatches it away. The bubble bursts. There is the sound of jeering laughter in the distance—the gods giggling because that fool Twill thought he would turn a fast buck.

This time it's wool. All you need to know about wool is that the price has trebled since last spring. In Australia, where most of the world's wool for cloth is clipped off the huge flocks of sheep that thrive there, a bale of wool that used to sell for less than $30 now sells for upward of $600.

For the first time in the memory of anyone still living, it is profitable to own sheep. Not only does wool command a fancy price, but so does that vaguely defined form of mutton loosely known as "lamb." Moreover, some biologists claim they have cooked up something that will make ewes feel like having lambs twice a year from now on instead of only once.

So things were pulling themselves together. A weekend farmer with a handful of hardworking ewes to help him carve a clearing in the encroaching pasturelands had an outside chance to turn an honest dollar. He could dream of paying the feed bill. So what happens?

So the bespectacled technologists who take a tbsp. of this and a cpfl. of that, mix same together in a furnace at 27,000 degrees Centigrade, and come out in due time with a synthetic whatzis have come out with some cheap fibers that are said to be just as good as wool. The technologists say so, that is.

Bang go the prospects of sheep herders. Bang go the rosy hopes of sheepmen within striking distance of paying their winter feed bills. Bang go the bright dreams of getting enough money ahead to pay off the mortgage on the old farm and send Willie away to school to learn to be a technologist so he can make an honest living.

Likewise, bang go some delicate balances in international trade. According to those who know, the only people who will wear wool in the future will be the extremely wealthy. Ordinary taxpayers will wear synthetics and like it—a technological triumph.

Aside from that, it will be a punch in the nose—just one more triumph of test-tubers over naturalists. And years from now when the only sheep left on earth are in zoos, Australia has reverted to the aborigines and people who once would have eaten mutton are crunching odds and ends of plastic gleaned from the floors of factories where they make cages for the poor devils who have blown their corks over too much technology, it will be fun to remember when there were woolly lambs in springtime.

Here is one sheep herder who thinks maybe it might be smarter to raise more wool than to figure out how to supplant sheep with some synthetic goop. Just when that little flock of sheep was ready to hit the jackpot!

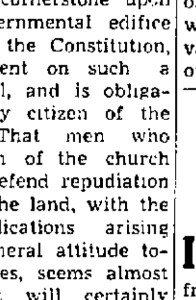
The Core Is The Congress

By George E. Sokolsky



SOKOLSKY

AN ORDERLY mind cannot recognize anarchy as within the realm of possibility. General Douglas MacArthur once got into a controversy with Kirby Page, editor of "The World Tomorrow," in 1931, about some clergymen refusing to serve in war, resulting in a strong letter in which much of his philosophy of life is stated. I take this letter from Frank Waldrop's "MacArthur On War," a most interesting study of a truly philosophic mind, MacArthur wrote Page:

"The question of war and peace is one that rests, under our form of government, in Congress. In exercising this authority, Congress voices the will of the majority, whose right to rule is the cornerstone upon which our governmental edifice is built. Under the Constitution, its pronouncement on such a question is final, and is obligatory upon every citizen of the United States. That men who wear the cloth of the church should openly defend repudiation of the laws of the land, with the necessary implications arising from such a general attitude toward our statutes, seems almost unbelievable. It will certainly hearten every potential or actual criminal and malefactor who either has or contemplates breaking some other law. Anomalous as it seems, it apparently stamps the clergyman as a leading exponent of law violation at individual pleasure."

* * *

OF COURSE, there is nothing new in this doctrine; it is clearly stated in the Constitution of the United States and in a number of decisions of the Supreme Court. Ours is a congressional government; that is, a representative republic.

During the past 20 years much has been done to shift the center of authority from Congress to the President, from the legislative to the executive. But the will of the people expresses itself best in the Congress, in the debates, the disagreements, the compromises, the acts of Congress. A wilful executive can work in secrecy and therefore unrelate himself to the will of the people.

Congress can do no business in secrecy and therefore cannot betray the will of the people without the knowledge of the people. If the people are careless in their vigilance of Congress, that is the fault of the people who neglect their responsibilities and obligations. But the core of our government is Congress and when that core rots, our nation will fall.

General Douglas MacArthur, in his magnificent address in 1935 to the Rainbow Division, which he commanded in World War I, said:

". . . Where are the empires of old? Where is Egypt, once a state on a high plane of civilization where a form of socialism prevailed and where the distribution of wealth was regulated . . . where are the empires of the East and the empires of the West which once were the shrines of wealth, wisdom and culture? Where are Babylon, Persia, Carthage, Rome, Byzantium? They all fell, never to rise again —annihilated at the hands of a more warlike and aggressive people, their cultures, memories — their cities, ruins. . .

German Recovery

By Raymond Moley

MOLEY

IN THE midst of confusion, conflict and discouraging news from Europe, it is pleasant to note some encouraging facts and conclusions about German recovery and fighting potential. This information comes from excellent private sources communicated to important former German citizens now living in this country. It is untainted by official propaganda and diplomatic maneuvering and double talk. It is not the same sort of story that German journalists and officials give to Americans for the purpose of serving German interests in this country and to elicit from us vast new grants of material and military aid. But it is true.

The state of German recovery is far ahead of that of Britain. The food is less rationed and is much better. Visitors in Switzerland say that half of the good automobiles are of German make. The misery of the first postwar years is gone and self-confidence is growing in every way.

In the iron and steel industry the enormous technical superiority of German engineers and organizers is already evident and in the operation of the Schuman plan the Germans are sure to play the first fiddle. In the coming collaboration in agriculture the same will be the case.

* * *

THE GERMANS of course were compelled to surrender their merchant fleet to the Allies after the war. But they are now prepared to build another with what, they hope, will be loans from the United States. West German Economic Minister Ehrhardt is preparing to come over here to see what he can do about that.

Whatever German officials may say for purposes of propaganda, Western Germany is prepared to fight. It cannot endure the prospect of the certain destruction of its Ruhr industry by our air power in case of Soviet attack. Private sources of information, moreover, indicated that in planning the military defense of Europe, the West Germans would like to put the Eastern line of defense further east than American strategy would have it. They would establish that line along tenable natural defenses, east of Hamburg through middle Germany, over Frankfort, then it might perhaps go to the old French Maginot line and down to the Alps and the Mediterranean.

* * *

THE MOST HEARTENING of all this information concerns the Eastern Germans. The Soviet has made a great propaganda gesture of the "progress" that Communist infiltration has made in that region. A great hullabaloo has been created over the organization of some hundred thousand German youngsters in a Red Front. But it will take more than a forced and clumsy mobilization by the Soviet to overcome the hatred and fear of Russians that has existed there for centuries. That hatred has been sharpened by brutal treatment since the war.

Any mobilization of Eastern Germans against the West Germans is unthinkable and the Soviet undoubtedly knows that. The fact is, that if a free vote were allowed in the Russian sector, including free Berlin, 95 percent of Eastern Germans would go anti-Communist. Moreover, there is a well-defined underground movement of Germans operating in Poland Czechoslovakia. The prospect of such a danger behind its lines is not an assured deterrent to Soviet plans for an attack upon the West, but it is a very serious factor.

What is needed is a resolute effort by the American government to overcome British and French reluctance to arm the German, for they are not only ready to fight but they are indispensable to our cause.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The Neutral

PHILLIPS

Elmer Twitchell made a brave effort to be calm, cool and even neutral in New York's great homecoming parade for General MacArthur. In the end he went wild like everybody else, and wound up on top of a lamppost cheering his head off. But his attempt at neutrality was noble. "I am for limited objectives in parade watching," he explained. "I never fight a big celebration on two fronts. With the tension between the East and West what it is today, I watched the procession from Fifth Avenue, the dividing line between the spheres of East and West on Manhattan Island. That seemed a neutral point. My parade strategy was to do all honor to an illustrious American and a great general without extending the area of debate."

Elmer explained that the line of march arranged by Grover Whalen had at first worried him. "A concession was made to the East as an area of importance when the parade was started from the Waldorf-Astoria on Park Avenue," said Mr. Twitchell. "I went there briefly, however, as the Waldorf also has friends in the West and I wanted my Waldorf-Astoria policy of open mindedness understood, especially in the men's bar. Mr. Whalen then headed the parade north but not far enough north to disturb the Democrats. He turned west at Sixtieth Street. Had he proceeded as far north as Sixty-first Street, he would have received a note from Mr. Truman, I hear.

* * *

"Now he headed it west, which was a nice gesture, but once in Central Park, he turned north but only long enough to cross the Park and come down the other side. The parade came out in the Avenue of the Americas and moved via Fifty-seventh Street to Broadway, which worried the East but made the West feel better. Grover now marched the boys down to Thirty-fourth Street where he showed rare diplomacy. He avoided the question of crossing at Thirty-eighth, Washington breathed easier.

* * *

"Here the procession marched to East River Drive, the sudden turn to the East temporarily disconcerting our Western Allies, but cheering the East no end. This was swinging pretty far to the East, however, but Grover had the situation well in hand and swung it back west to Broadway at the Battery and thus to City Hall, a welcome sanctuary from all that ticker tape. Now Mr. Whalen sent the parade even farther west to Washington Arch, much to the concern of those favoring action in the East. But he stopped at Fifth Avenue, showing a fine appreciation of the delicate global situation. And it was on Fifth Avenue, midway between the two zones, that I reviewed the procession. I thus showed my deep regard for General MacArthur without offending the Democratic Administration or U.N."

* * *

"By watching from Fifth Avenue didn't you made your parade-watching policy seem pretty weak?" we asked.

"My boy," said Elmer, "on a day like this somebody had to be neutral."

"But, on the level, did you really feel neutral?" we pressed.

"Certainly not!" snapped Elmer. "I'm only human. And ain't that man MacArthur terrific! Where's my hat? Who took my horn? Wow!"

GREETING FOR THE DAY

Welcome, Douglas!

"Wotta guy!"

General MacArthur is reported favoring a residence in Connecticut, perhaps at Stamford. We would suggest our old home town, New Haven, except that it has a Truman Street, and also thoroughfares named George and Bradley.

A new Washington job, consultant to the President, has been created at $50 a day. What Harry needs is not a consultant at such a high cost. All he needs (and he can get one for that much per week) is a fireman standing very close with an extinguisher when he gets hot.

A Boston ball park has decided not to sell beer during the game. This gives the park customer a big advantage over the fellow who gets the game by television.

Dance Featured in Program Of Art, Lecture-Recital Clubs

An evening of the arts, featuring the dance, with ballet interpretations by advanced students of the Ethyl Battin Dance Academy of Mansfield, was an event on Thursday's social calender at the Marion Country Club.

Approximately 165 attended the annual combined meeting of the Marion Art Club and of the Lecture-Recital Club. "The History of the Ballet with Dance Interpretations" was the program theme.

Welcoming address was by Mrs. Carter Patton, president of Lecture-Recital Club, and she introduced Mrs. A. E. Knapp, incoming president of the Art Club. Mrs. U. A. Nystrom has been heading the Art Club as president, and she and Mrs. Patton presided at the table during serving of luncheon.

Mrs. Clarence Weber, program chairman of the Art Club, spoke on the cooperation of the two Marion art and music clubs in joining for the program. She introduced the director of the academy, Ethyl Battin, who spoke on "Ballet Highlights," followed by presentation by the nine pupils who accompanied her, of their ballet solo numbers, rhythm tap duo, and group ballet.

Popular Art

"Today, the dance is one of the most popular of the arts," the Mansfield teacher told her audience "History shows that dancing persists on a plane with poetry, music and painting, and that it advances with the race." She traced its history from the early Egyptians to the Hebrews, the Greeks and Romans to the Europeans of the middle ages down to the present day

As an illustration of "America's contribution to the dance art, . . tap dancing," a rhythm tap duo was presented by solos by Ruth Sweet, Bonnie Rae Battin, Sally Lou Zeger, Peggy Bayer, Melinda Plank, Jeannette Cory and a ballet finale by the entire group of soloists and Carol Jean Schad, and with special solo by Jeannette Cory.

Melinda Plank, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Plank of near Marion and a pupil at Clarendon School, has studied dancing at the Ethyl Battin Dance Academy seven years. The academy was founded nine years ago. Its director is a former member of the Rockettes precision chorus of the Radio City Music Hall in New York City.

Decorations were in charge of Miss Mabel Wheatley. During luncheon time, Miss Rosaline Manzo provided a background of piano music. Announcement was made of Fine Arts Day May 1 at the Country Club.

Mrs. George Griffiths was Lecture-Recital program chairman and Mrs. Ione Lane, social chairman for the music club, Mrs. George Probst social chairman for the Art Club, and Mrs. Allen Wyble, general co-chairman.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.

BACK in the days of an almost forgotten conflict, when soldiers were "doughboys", wore peaked hats and sang "It's a Long Way to Tipperary", this town, which always makes the stuff that goes to war first, was the scene of the first successful phoney union set up by the first successful enemy industrial spy, who pulled the first successful sabotage strike.

So, on a trip up the East Coast, through the clanging arsenals of this conflict, two wars later, I stopped by this week to talk with the men who are whipping a new defense machine together There were about 125 of them — labor leaders and men who direct the plants And, out of these men of three wars, came one question late in the day: They've seen crises before—but is this one of them'

Victor Riesel

And Washington should know that there are a thousand Bridgeports asking the same question. These men are the people represented by the national labor leaders and the industrialists' spokesmen meeting almost daily with President Truman and Charles Wilson. From the grass roots, they are needling their Washington people—and are saying bluntly.

"You in Washington tell us what's happening if you want us to sacrifice, otherwise why freeze our wages and prices?"

And back from Washington, where both sides, even as this is being written, are feuding bitterly again over just how much each group will yield in this emergency, comes this answer from the highest business sources

"We don't know what the intelligence services are reporting to the President But we do know that right in President Truman's cabinet there are two Secretaries who are saying privately that we're not in a national emergency They won't say this publicly since they prefer the cabinet to the dog house."

* * *

AND FROM THE LABOR side come reports which say, in effect, "if there's a real emergency these days some one should tell the war planning boards about it. 'They're acting as though Stalin's Politburo has declared a holiday and is off on a five-year rest cure."

Labor's researchers come up with some cold figures to prove that somebody high in the Administration must be frightened of nothing more serious hitting this nation than another Truman letter. For example:

Our war boards now are spending at a rate of two billion dollars a month, instead of the more terrifying and justifiable four billion dollars monthly tab needed to match the swift Soviet maneuvers.

Orders now being given for vital weapons have late 1953 and 1954 delivery dates—some even due in 1955

* * *

NO LABOR LEADER or industrialist blames the corporations involved But these national leaders in Washington do point out that the Navy, for example, is negotiating with the Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Co. for a handy batch of guided missiles which can wipe out half an enemy's fleet or a nice section of an enemy coastal town. Plans call for construction of a full new plant in California, expected to call in several thousand workers. Fine. But the Navy's delivery date is set some time in 1952 So, when do we "deliver" the stuff to the Sovietized Chinese armies where it will do the most harm?

And then there is the Army demand for medium tanks Although Ford Co was eager for defense work for months, it wasn't until recently that it finally got a $195,000,000 order for the little metal monsters. Fine. The Army came through. Now the company has bought 157 acres up in Livonia, Mich. On it will go a huge, one-story tank plant, after the architects have designed the structure The Ford Co. will turn them out at record rate—but, by the time the tanks begin to roll, Korea may be just a memory, and a bad one at that.

* * *

RECENTLY, THE NATION was elated with reports, and an exciting picture of a new secret Chrysler tank. But, to turn it out in quantity. Chrysler is building a new plant in Dover, Del., where not a steel plate will be riveted to a giant tread for months and months.

The General Electric Co is throwing about $350,000,000 into new plant facilities—which will take four years to complete. And labor's experts have a hundred such reports, indicating that somebody inside the government's brain trust apparently feels that all this time is expendable

For example, to move what stuff we are making, we need at least 10,000 new freight cars a month, for many a month. So we're just about going into production on 6,000 and many of the tanks and guns and ammo crates we are making will sit in factory yards.

Now, there isn't a company anywhere which would not junk whatever it's doing in its own big plants right now, if the government said we need it to save the nation and thousands of our G I. lives

But the government says, go ahead and build, we have four or five years.

And then it turns to our national leaders and says, there's an emergency. What's happening" Truth is better than the friction we're getting into today because of this all-out confusion.

Turning Point

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

PRESIDENT SYNGMAN RHEE of the Republic of Korea is a statesman who weathers well.

He'll be 76 next week. His mind is as agile as ever, he has a still-growing army in the field, and he again is hopefully pursuing his lifelong goal—a free, United Korea

But the last time I saw President Rhee his spirit was all but shattered. He had reached the low point of a long lifetime He saw his dream dying and he half wanted to die with it.

HAL BOYLE

It was last December The Communists were massing to retake Seoul, and residents were fleeing the city by the scores of thousands every day Rhee didn't want to flee. He wanted to stay in his capital—and die at the hands of the enemy.

"That would be the best way to go," he said, tiredly

The interview was held in his office in the provincial palace built by the Japanese during their long occupation of the country. The room was heated by a floor stove, but the old man wore a sweater under his coat jacket to protect him from the cold

* * *

A GREEN PLANT STOOD on his desk. Rhee talked of it and of his horticultural experiments, of the fine garden he once had had in Honolulu. And he talked of his fishpool, and his love of fishing.

"It is the only thing that really relaxes me," he said wistfully "But now is no time for fishing.'

And then, with an old man's love of the past, he spoke of his youth, of his seven years imprisonment for revolutionary activities.

"It was during those years in prison that I read the Bible and became a Christian," he mused.

He talked on about the long history of his country and his years of exile abroad trying to regain its independence. There was some bitterness in his voice

"Korea was just a little country faraway," he said, "and the diplomats didn't think it very important. I tried to warn the people in Washington of the danger of Japanese imperialism, but they had other things on their mind. And who was I that they should listen? Just another exile.'

* * *

OUTSIDE THE window the day began to darken But the old man went on with his reminiscences Several times his secretary came in to hint that it was getting late. She had been sent in by Mrs Rhee who tries to keep him from getting overtired. But the president brushed away his secretary each time. He was weary of present troubles, and wanted to spend a day among his memories, telling them to a listener. And he did And his white-topped face looked like a mask of luminous old bronze as he talked.

When he finally took up the problem of communism, his face wrinkled in ancient hate.

"Anyone who compromises with communism is lost," he said. "But too many do not yet know this."

He spoke hopefully on the possibility that the United Nations forces would defend and save Seoul. But he knew in his heart that it was impossible at that time.

"I do not want to leave," he said suddenly. "Even if all others go, I want to stay here with my wife. Then when the Communists come, we will go to that door together. I will have a gun in my hand. And I will tell their leaders, 'if you come another step forward, I will shoot you.'

"And when they do advance I shall fire at them. That will force them to fire back, and my wife and I will die together here where we belong. It will be better that way.'

* * *

THE OLD MAN'S eyes lit with a weary self-satisfaction. To him dying that way seemed, at that moment, easier than going on fighting for the cause he had given his years to Then a weary look came into his face.

"But my advisors say it would be wrong for me to do this," he said. "They insist I must go back to Pusan with the government and wait for better times"

That is what Rhee did. Now the United Nations troops have regained Seoul and pushed on north of the 38th Parallel. And the old president is still alive and leading his countrymen.
